AFL'S GREEN BACKS PROPOSED CONTROL

Smith, of South Carolina,
Brands Bill an Attempt
To Check Rise of Dixie
From Civil War Low.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—Southern oratory of the old-fashioned, full-voiced type reinvigorated today a movement to bury the administration wage and hour bill in a senate committee.

Led by Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, a candidate last week for majority leader, and Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, the southerners almost to a man banded together in an outright revolt against the measure.

Harrison should that the bill would set up a labor standards board which could destroy "business, large and small, by its administrative fiat."

Smith declared the measure is intended to "check the inevitable rise of the south from the lowly condition in which the War Between the States left it."

The senate agreed to end debate on the bill at 3 p. m. (Atlanta time).

50 Cents a Day.
"If South Carolina living conditions are so 'kindly,'" he said, "that it takes only 50 cents a day to live reasonably and comfortably, and in New England it takes a dollar and a half, then must we raise the wages in the south to a dollar and a half?"

"Why don't we call in God and tell him to stop this business of giving one section more natural advantages than another?"

Administration leaders, who earlier had counted the battle won when William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, urged the bill's passage, hurriedly checked the senate roll call. They reported there were still enough votes to pass the bill, though they were obviously worried.

Administration Victory.
Another southerner, Reynolds, of North Carolina, obtained approval of an amendment to exempt firms of ten or less employees, but his triumph was short-lived.

Administration leaders went to work in the cloakrooms and in the senate office building.

A motion to reconsider followed and by a vote of 52 to 31, the amendment was swept out of the bill. The result was generally considered a significant administrative victory and the leading proponent of the bill.

Fastest U. S. Sloop Defends Today Cherished Cup Held for 86 Years

By ALAN GOULD.
NEWPORT, R. I., July 30.—(AP)—The million-dollar yacht-racing duel for the curious old America's cup, will be renewed tomorrow, with two of the keenest international rivals in sailing history handling two of the fastest skyscraping class sloops ever constructed.

For this World Series of the sailing seas, Harold Stirling Vanderbilt, No. 1 man among America's pleasure boat skippers, will pit his newly-built Ranger against the blue-hulled Endeavour II, owned and sailed by Thomas Octave Murdoch Sopwith, British airplane maker.

The return naval engagement between these multi-millionaire sportsmen, three years after their first hectic struggle, marks the 16th match since the trophy was captured in British waters by the Vincent T. Baker, chief lieutenant of the Forrest Turner gang, and two companions ruthlessly shot down an unarmed Troup county convict guard and escaped in a county truck yesterday afternoon.

Theirs marked the eighth escape from a Georgia chain gang this week.

The gang lieutenant timed his escape just three hours before the arrival of his chieftain, who was being transferred from Fulton tower to the Troup gang on orders of the prison commission. Warden L. L. Bowles was in Atlanta to effect the transfer when the break occurred.

Camp Arsenal Raided.
Battering through a barred window, the trio entered the camp arsenal and secured arms and ammunition before fleeing in a county truck, which they later abandoned near Thomaston.

With pistols and rifles pointed at her, Miss Katherine Parsons, of Columbus, district supervisor of the state child welfare work, was forced to surrender her new auto to the fugitives who had pulled abreast her car on a highway near Thomaston.

The three turned back toward Thomaston in the woman's car, leaving her stranded.

"You can catch a ride with a car we passed a while ago if you don't care to ride with us," the swarthy fugitive leader, who boasts of "his way with women," called to Miss Parsons as they drove away.

Baggage, Money Taken.
Besides her car, Miss Parsons reported the loss of money and baggage.

Warden Bowles and other Troup officials, who had organized several posses to search the county, left LaGrange for Thomaston immediately upon being notified of the escape.

ATLANTA-ROSWELL ROAD WORK FUND SET UP BY BOARD

$250,000 Will Be Used To Straighten, Resurface
Important Highway to Points in North Georgia in Immediate Future.

The State Highway Board yesterday set up $250,000 to be used in the immediate future for the straightening and resurfacing of the Atlanta-Roswell road, one of Atlanta's most important highways, connecting with Alpharetta, Cumming and other points to the north.

Commissioner Herman H. Watson, making the announcement for the board, said that survey crews would be put to work on the road within a few days and that a call for bids on needed construction would be issued as soon as the engineers have completed plans for the new roadway.

$750,000 in Awards.
The announcement from Watson came as the board awarded approximately $725,000 worth of paving, grading and bridge projects in widely scattered sections of the state.

The board yesterday also formally announced that Eugene Stanley had been named chief engineer of the department, succeeding E. Jack Smith, whose resignation awaited Chairman W. L. Miller when that official returned to Atlanta yesterday from a brief visit to his home at Lakeland.

It was forecast in The Constitution several days ago that Stanley, who has been acting chief engineer, would be named to the post permanently.

Smith's Future Plans.
Smith, who left the department two weeks ago on an indefinite leave of absence because of ill health, plans to enter the contracting business for himself.

Stanley has been with the highway department for nearly 20 years, except for an absence of three years during the Talmadge administration. He has served in numerous capacities and until his promotion to chief engineer had been the assistant in charge of federal projects.

Discussing the Atlanta-Roswell road, Stanley said that the road was in "fairly good shape" but that it needed straightening and resurfacing in many places.

SPANISH WAR LAID TO SOVIET AGENTS

Germany Makes Formal
Charges as Red Action
Blocks Neutrality Plan.

LONDON, July 30.—(UP)—Germany today formally charged Soviet Russia with starting the Spanish civil war in an effort to establish a Bolshevik regime and with shattering international efforts to preserve the non-intervention position.

The charge was made by Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to London, before a "showdown" session of the chairman's subcommittee of the non-intervention body that has pledged 27 European nations to a "hands-off-Spain" policy.

Started Civil War.
"Soviet Russia started the Spanish civil war and would like to end it in her own way, that is, by Bolshevizing Spain," Von Ribbentrop said angrily.

The attack on Germany's most bitter European enemy sprung from Russia's announcement that she will not consider, under any circumstances, the granting of belligerent rights to the Spanish insurgents.

Ivan Maisky, Russian representative, retorting to Von Ribbentrop, said:

"Don't try to shift the blame from those who are guilty to those who are not. The world public

Police Committee Request Straight Sentences for All Offenders.

City recorders were called upon last night to inflict straight jail sentences on lottery offenders as the police committee of city council renewed the war against the "bug racket."

A resolution requesting recorders of the city court, where most of the city lottery cases are heard, to impose sentences of from 60 to 90 days on all lottery operators convicted, in addition to fines, was unanimously adopted by the committee upon the motion of Mayor Hartsfield.

Six Arrests Per Day.
"We are already knocking some of the profit out of the lottery game," Police Chief M. A. Hornsby, as asserted he told the committee, "and we are getting more arrests of lottery men every day."

As J. A. McKibben, superintendent of detectives, launched a vigorous defense of patrolmen chasing misdemeanor offenders in police cars, declaring that "these criminals are out to kill officers and any one who gets in their way," committeemen asserted "we are not putting criminals on notice they can get away clean by speeding."

Alderman G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the committee, asked

Alfred Codona, Trapeze Artist, Shoots Estranged Wife, Kills Self

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 30.—(UP)—Alfred Codona, 43, considered the world's greatest flying trapeze artist, shot and critically wounded his estranged wife, Vera Bruce, 31, late today, then killed himself.

Codona's first wife, Lillian Leitzel, also a world-famous aerialist, crashed to her death in Copenhagen, Denmark, in 1931, during one of the troupe's flying performances.

They Meet in Office.
Codona met his wife and her mother, Mrs. Annie Bruce, in the downtown office of Attorney James E. Pawson to effect a property settlement. The performer asked Pawson to leave the room. He then locked the door.

Mrs. Bruce said Codona lit a cigarette for his wife and remarked: "Vera, I guess this is the last thing I can do for you."

He drew a pistol from his pocket, fired four times at short range at his wife, then shot himself once. He died instantly.

Miss Bruce filed suit for divorce on June 28 of this year, charging her husband with cruelty and extreme jealousy. She was forced to leave town to fulfill a circus engagement that day, and was granted an interlocutory decree several hours after the action was entered in Long Beach superior court. The property settlement involved today was for the sum of $50,000.

Fall Is Recalled.
Codona was considered without a peer in his profession until two years ago when he slipped from a bar 60 feet above the ground and broke almost every bone in his body. He recovered, but since the fall has been relegated to minor roles.

TIENSIN, July 31.—(Saturday)—(AP)—Japanese field batteries shelled the outlying districts of this terror-stricken city again this morning—but the cannonades apparently were only for moral effect.

No shells were necessary: The Japanese control of Tiensin and her outskirts was virtually complete.

The area before the Japanese troops appeared cleared of all Chinese opposition. No answering shots were heard.

The Japanese forces dominated the whole region of China from the Pacific to the Yungting river, west of Peiping.

Thousands of homeless Chinese streamed out of the native sections last night, seeking escape from the terror.

Again Japanese shells and air bombs fired buildings in the Chinese sections of the city. Chinese said corpses still lay in the streets, but there was no estimate of casualties. Yesterday, in the first day of bombardment, Chinese officers said thousands of noncombatant Chinese were killed or wounded.

Resistance Smashed.
From many points, along the twisting 100-mile front, between the coast and Peiping's western environs came Japanese claims of success for their arms. Other accounts tended to show that Chinese resistance had been smashed over a wide area.

The Japanese declared today's Tiensin bombardment was necessary to wipe out centers of Chinese military preparation and to turn back a Chinese counterattack. There had been rifle firing along the fringes of the Japanese concession, when suddenly Japanese air bombers and heavy artillery swung into action.

Among the targets was the Science library of Nankai University, gift of the Rockefeller Foundation to that institution, most important center of learning in the north. The preparatory schools of Nankai in the native city were bombed.

Town Captured.
Domei, the Japanese news agency, reported a Japanese column under Major General M. Kawabe captured Changhsien, important station on the Peiping-Hankow railway, 15 miles south of Tiensin.

THIRD ORGANIZATION OF LABOR MAPPED TO OPPOSE AFL, CIO

80 Delegates Gather at Call of Independent Hershey Candy Workers.

HERSHEY, Pa., July 30.—(AP)—Plans for a national federation of "independent" unions were projected into America's labor picture tonight.

Eighty delegates, described as from more than a dozen states, gathered behind closed doors at the call of the independent chocolate workers of Hershey.

One leader unofficially made plain the federation will battle both the American Federation of Labor and John L. Lewis's Committee for Industrial Organization, for members.

Registered for opening sessions were persons listed as representatives of unaffiliated groups in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, Maryland, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and the New England states.

SHIPWORKERS HALT TRAFFIC, STORM POLICE STATION

NEW YORK, July 30.—(UP)—Two thousand CIO pickets and sympathizers from shipyards and ships staged a sit-down strike on a crowded street, halted traffic and blockaded a Brooklyn police station today.

Seven men were arrested for refusing to give way and permit non-striking workers to leave the plant.

The pickets marched to the station to protest the arrests and what they termed "strike-breaking" action by the police. They advanced several times toward the doors but were forced back each time by additional police reinforcements.

FORD HEARING BROUGHT TO END

DETROIT, July 30.—(AP)—A legal brief filed by the Ford Motor Company in 1931 was used today to assail the company's contention that union organizers beaten near the Ford plant May 26 were trespassing.

The testimony marked the final day of a hearing on a National Labor Relations Board's complaint. The Ford brief contended the Eagle avenue underpass approaching the Ford River Rouge plant was "inherently public" property. Some of the fighting between unionists and Ford employees occurred under this underpass.

DIXIE SOLONS MASS AGAINST PAY BILL

ponents of the bill were much encouraged.

The bill itself would establish a board, equipped with authority to make surveys in individual industries and prescribe for them, in its discretion, minimum hours of not less than 40 weekly and minimum wages of not more than 40 cents an hour.

Harrison, who lost to Senator Barkley by one vote in the leadership contest, was critical not only of the act but of some activities and personnel of the administration. Except where the bill was concerned, however, his tone was moderate.

Emphasizes Split.

Smith brought into his discourse more than a suggestion of what has been discussed for months in the senate cloak rooms, the ever-broadening split between the administration and Democratic senators from the conservative south.

To the administration, Smith attributed the current move to enact

Pound at Pay-Hour Bill

PAT HARRISON.

E. D. SMITH.

anti-lynching legislation and the abrogation of the two-thirds nominating rule at the last Democratic convention. The abrogation, he said, had "sacked the cards" against his section. But he defied "them" to drive him from the party.

As for the bill—the "philanthropic and eleemosynary spirit" behind it is nothing but a "vote-getting proposition," he said, and the measure is designed to repress the south economically.

Harrison, who acknowledged in closing that he had "said more perhaps than I should," told the senate that one reason for his opposition to the bill was that "Madame Perkins" would have a hand in administering it.

No Shoes Again.

He would vote for no legislation, he said, which would be administered by any persons with "an antipathy for my section, who have an idea that the women wear no shoes there, and who have other ideas that are not true."

But he centered his criticism upon the proposed board.

"I don't want to give that much power to anybody, large or small, by its administrative fiat. Of course the bill says it is supposed to take into account business conditions, but I don't know whether it will or not."

Green's statement supporting the bill, which came after it had been said in the senate that Federation lobbyists were urging that the bill be recommitted, was conditioned upon changes being made in the measure in the house.

Even after his statement, some officers of the Federation were still actively seeking to have the bill recommitted, particularly John P. Frey, head of the metal trades department. He disclosed that he was urging that course upon senators.

Several amendments were approved just before the close of the day's session. One by Senator McGill, Democrat, Kansas, would exempt persons delivering farm products to markets. The other, by Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, would apply the hour and wage provisions of the bill to WPA workers.

CHINA'S RESISTANCE IS 'INSULT' TO JAPAN

Stand of Army Came as Electric Shock to Still-Tribal Nation.

By FRANK H. HEDGES. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

TOKYO, July 30.—Never has the remarkable ability of the Japanese to sink all differences and act as a single unit been better demonstrated than in the way they have rallied to support the campaign undertaken by the Japanese army in North China.

Probably no other people the world has known have ever been so racially conscious as are the Japanese—not even the Hebrews.

The stand of the Chinese army in Hopei against the "night of Japan" came as an electric shock to the Japanese people. For years China had been meekly, even if at times protestingly, yielding to Japanese demands, aggression and encroachment.

Always Had Way.

In diplomatic negotiations, also, China had almost invariably bowed to Japan's will. At times, Chinese diplomats have prolonged negotiations, but always Japan has had its own sweet way in the end.

The same thing was expected when the trouble started near Peiping. But within five days the Tokyo government realized this was not to be. China displayed a determination to resist, to drive Japan from its homeland.

Once this was grasped the wheels were set into motion to mobilize public opinion. Within another three days this had been accomplished.

Japanese Still Tribal.

The explanation finds its roots deep in both Japanese psychology and history. It is generally accepted a small group of conquering men and women were swept northward by the Japan current and landed on these islands.

Organization then was tribal in form, with the chief of the tribe as emperor, and organized in Japan in this twentieth century is still tribal in so far as Japanese psychology is concerned. An insult to them in any way is fundamentally an insult to a unitary tribe.

China's stand at Tientsin and Peiping is, therefore, more than a threat to Japan's plans and ambitions in North China. It is essentially an insult of the first order, and this modernized organized "tribe" of some 70,000,000 people so bitterly resents this insult that there is no hesitation in their minds about taking up arms to avenge it.

still fresh in memory are the two victories which Endeavor I scored at the outset, thereby producing a cup threat that took all of Vanderbilt's skill and resourcefulness to turn back.

The first race tomorrow is slated for 30 miles over a 15-mile course, to windward and return. The starting point is a buoy nine nautical miles southeast of Brenton reef lightship, in the open reaches of Block Island sound. The signal for the start will be sounded at 11:40 a. m. (eastern standard time).

Weather prospects were a bit dubious. Showers and moderate southerly winds were forecast. Rain is unlikely to cause postponement.

WAGE LEGISLATION URGED BY PERKINS

Law Held Necessary Despite Industrial Gains.

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins said tonight the country needs wage and hour legislation despite industrial gains since the depression.

"Even with continued improvement we need legislation which will increase the purchasing power of the lower income groups so that farmers, merchants, manufacturers, railroads and investors all may benefit," the Labor Department chief said in a radio speech.

"The pending legislation in congress deals with one of our most pressing problems.

"We know that in 1929, when there was a high income year, nearly 16,400,000 families had incomes of less than $2,000 a year and of this number nearly 6,000,000 had incomes of less than $1,000 a year.

"Approximately 16,000,000 families had incomes of $25,000 or more a year and 63,000 had incomes of $50,000 or more. The great bulk of our families even in 1929 had incomes under $2,000 and a very substantial number lived almost on a poverty level."

Sale of Bright Leaf Tobacco Moving Swiftly

Down into the heart of a huge basket of bright leaf tobacco goes this auctioneer's hand in an Adel warehouse, and out comes a golden sheaf of the weed for buyers' scrutiny. Quality detected at an instant's glance, an opening bid is made. No time is lost. A few scant seconds of expert bidding and the sale is closed. Each basket, as it is sold, is marked with the buyer's name and his price, and in a few minutes the grower may receive his money.

Early Bright Leaf Prices Range Well Above Last Season Average

By the Associated Press.

Tobacco prices in the Georgia-Florida bright leaf belt were established at slightly above a 25-cent-a-pound average at reporting markets yesterday.

Returns from 14 of the 17 warehouse towns involving sales of 6,930,737 pounds at Thursday's opening auctions, gave an average figure of 25.88 cents.

This approximated last year's opening day average figure, but was 4 1/2 cents above the average for the Georgia crop of 1936 and about 2 cents more than the Florida return.

Starting with fresh supplies of the bright-leaf leaf yesterday, the markets reported generally "brisk sales, heavy offerings" with quality ranging from sand lugs and first primings to medium grades. Thursday's average of four pounds for a dollar held good.

Hazlehurst reported second-day prices showing a tendency to rise. Vidalia warehousemen said sales were fair and offerings were mostly sand lugs, with price averaging 25.18 cents a pound, and Blackshear reported a 30-cent average with offerings predominantly first primings.

250,000 Pounds Sold.

Vidalia's second-day auctions sold an estimated quarter-million pounds for 25.2 cents average. Sellers were reported satisfied with prices that rose some over last season's opening and offerings ran from the bulk of lugs to good common and fine grades.

Another big sale day was reported at Adel, with sales set at 325,000 pounds at a 25-cent average. Metter offerings at 300,000 pounds, mostly medium, averaged about 26 1/2 cents, warehousemen said.

At Blackshear, where first primings predominated, sales jumped from 595,000 pounds opening day to an estimated 650,000 pounds Friday at an average of about 30 cents. Sales were brisk.

Closing strong, the Hahira market ended a second day of business with the following:

DOUSTA: Average 24 1/2 a pound for 594,476 pounds, cash total $14,942.25.
HAHIRA: Reported 266,940 pounds sold for an average of 25.35, averaging 25.95.
WAYCROSS: Capacity sales reported, with 236,660 pounds sold for $81,056, average 24.21.
PELHAM: Warehousemen reported 236,000 pounds bringing $99,176.98, average 24.21.
TIFTON: Total pounds of 692,520 at 24.75 bringing $17,095.25, compared to last year's $81,056 pounds at 24.59 average.

DELI: 318,924 pounds selling at average of 27.19 cents to bring cash harvest of $8,772.97.
DOUGLAS: Average price of 32.56 per hundred brought estimated $17,404.77 from 534,000 pounds.
HAZLEHURST: 202,000 pounds at 27.89 average brought $56,227.80.
MOLTRIE: The market sold 639,756 pounds for $19,269.35, averaging 25.95.
NASHVILLE: Sales 807,780 pounds at 26.12 bringing $21,107.42.
BLACKSHEAR: 600,500 pound total sale for $19,689.84 at a 27-cent average.
WAYCROSS: 217,000 pounds at 29.84 bringing $64,969.80.
STETTER: 300,000 pounds at 26-cent average, cash total $78,000.
TAMM: 225,000 pounds at 24.44-cent average, cash total $75,420.

CATHOLICS REQUEST OWN BIBLE VERSION

Bible program. The superintendent said he was relieved yesterday that the act of Bennett vs. The City of La Grange, has ruled in conformity to the constitution.

"To take more than one-half of a million of dollars of the tax money of the state to buy Bibles for the children, when they are not to be a part of the course of study in the schools, and the teachers are not to be allowed to teach them, but they are just to be made a free gift with no obligation whatever attached, is a plain violation of the law. The state, under the law, can only furnish free books to the children on the subjects that are to be taught in the schools.

"It is a plain violation of the law because it, in effect, decides by law, what is the real Bible. It is an attempt to say by law that the King James version of the Bible is the only true version, and that all other versions are spurious. The act of the Governor and the board says it must be the King James version, and no other one, that is distributed by the state. It is saying in effect to the Jewish and Catholic children, and all others whose parents believe in another version of the Bible, that their parents are all wrong, and have been teaching them a false doctrine.

Questions Authority.

"Upon what authority, in God's name, can the Governor and the board of education legally decide what version of the Bible is the true one, and buy that one with the taxes paid by the Jews and Catholics, and all others who honestly believe in another version?"

"Since the beginning of time there has never been a law passed by any government that, if carried to its legitimate conclusion, was more destructive to religious liberty than this law will be, if it is carried to its legitimate conclusion.

"It is not only legally wrong, but it is morally wrong. Who can justify an any moral ground, taking tax money paid by hundreds of thousands of citizens who do not believe in the King James version of the Bible, and diverting it unlawfully to teach their children that their parents are wrong in their religious beliefs?

"Personally, I believe in the King James version with all my heart and mind. It is the one my dear father and mother loved and made the rule of faith and practice for their lives, and I have done so myself, all my life. My father preached from it all his life, and I have humbly preached from it all my life. I would like to keep it for my Bible. I would not stand for any governor or board to tell me it's wrong. Have not all the people who do not agree with me, the same right that I have?"

"The action is unwise, and will not accomplish the thing intended. When you furnish a young, ignorant child with several free books, and require him to diligently study and learn what is in them, and then, you at the same time, give him another book, but tell him you will not teach him that one, that the law for 'ds you to, that he has no obligation whatever as to that one, and you will not, in any sense, require him to study it, wouldn't that be equivalent to telling him that this book is not of as much importance as the others and will be not think the same thing about it?"

"The Bible should be given to a child in the home. The father and mother should teach it to him to the limit of their ability, and should carry him to Sunday school and the church for further study. It's the business of the home and the church to teach the Bible, and not the state."

"I want, as an humble member of a local Baptist church, to make my strong protest against this law. Our Baptist church from the beginning, have opposed everything whatever that leaves towards connecting in any way the church and the state. The separation of the church and the state has been for all time one of our strongest doctrines. Our fathers not only believed in it, but many of them died for it. Personally, if my courage is strong enough, I would die for it."

"Just how any one who is a Baptist, and who knows the immortal doctrines of the church he is a member of, could support this law, is impossible for me to understand."

"I reverently and lovingly call upon all our Baptist people in Georgia to do all in their power to persuade the Governor and the board of education to abandon their illegal effort to teach our children religion. Our associations are beginning to meet now. Let us take it up in them, form our people to the grave, and let our common faith, and create as much public sentiment as we can. I expect to attend all of them I can, and present the matter to them as strongly as I can."

The Bible proponents received a staunch backer in the person of Dr. William Childs R. Johnson, of Columbia Theological Seminary, of Macon, one of the south's leading ministerial schools.

Dr. Robinson said, while he held Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills B. church, in highest esteem, he did not agree with his opposition to the purchase of the Bibles by the education board. Conceding on the program, Dr. Robinson said:

"I want to commend and support the action of the state in its decision to give the Bible to the children in public schools. While I hold the highest esteem for the prominent Atlanta pastor who has opposed this action, and am deeply grateful to God for what his noble denomination has done for the Christianization of Georgia, I respectfully differ from him in the application which he makes of the free state's money."

"God has ordained two different kinds of government, church and state. The chief duty of the former is with the soul, and the latter with the body; the one with eternalities, of the other with the temporalities; of the one the inner man, of the other the outer. Church ought to rule over state, not state over church. I am utterly opposed to the materialism of either. But this does not mean that the state is to be a godless, atheistic or agnostic organization. God is, in the right, ought to be recognized as the head of the state as of the church. God the Father, the creator, the upholder of the universe, and the governor of nations, is the true head of the state as God the Son, the Divine-Human, Redeemer, is the head of the church. Governments rule by the grace of God. Hence, in this day when there is so much infidelity, ought our teachers in our great universities, and it is to be feared much of it, to be brought back to our school rooms, and it is a proper act for the state of Georgia to indicate her recognition of God by distributing His Word, in the commonly accepted form which, indeed, is the translation made and authorized by the civil government as its name: the King James version, indeed, to the children in the schools."

Mrs. Nelson Op. said.

Opposition ranks we joined by Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Newton, of Atlanta, former member of the city board of education, who raised an editorial in the Constitution criticizing the proposed law.

"The Constitution has a habit of viewing public matters right," Mrs. Nelson said, "as to the editing of July 29 on 'The Bible in the School,' it justly refers to the leadership of Governor Live's and taxes. Taxes leave less money for newspapers, magazines and for the Sunday school and the church. They cause anxious days and nights to thousands of home owners struggling to pay the mortgages on their home."

"That means we would be a Bible to the grace of the Bishop Warren, A. Landrum, of Messrs. Asa, Warren and Howard Candler, the grandchild of John Grant and all the other people in Atlanta. It means we would furnish Bibles to the children and grandchildren of all of the preachers in the state."

V. F. W. Back-Newton.

Speaking for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Robert T. Eford, patriotic instructor for the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Georgia, joined Dr. Newton in attacking the program. Commenting on the program, Eford said:

"The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States supports the position of Dr. Louie Newton with reference to the distribution of Bibles among school children of this state. There are many things, we think, that school children (and adults as well) ought not to look to the state for, things too precious and too personal to have about them any influence that might be said to emanate from paid officials of government. One of these is religious instruction. One who seeks religious solace ought to choose the source and it should be unimpaired by influences that would attend holders of public office. A boy or girl should look first, we think, to his or her parents and then to his or her pastor for this. To draw that personal and precious thing from the same source whence emanates our political and partisan controversies will destroy it."

JAPANESE PLANES SMASH RESISTANCE

west of Peiping and on the west bank of the Yungting river.

At the other end of the front the Japanese captured a strong Chinese position at Taku, at the mouth of the Hai river. This, they said, permitted resumption of shipping operations at Tangku, deep-water port for Tientsin.

Attack Collapses.

Organized Chinese resistance at Tientsin seemed to be at an end. The boldly conceived Chinese attack on the Japanese concession and military positions early Thursday appeared to have collapsed under the vicious two days' bombardment. Two brigades of Chinese regulars were reported in rapid retreat, while the militarized police who joined in the attacks yesterday were giving up their arms.

(Japanese accounts of large movements of Chinese central army units toward northern Hopei—which the Japanese insist will mean real war—were not borne out by other sources.

(In Nanking army officers spoke vaguely of throwing all China's armed strength into the fight against Japan, but would say nothing about actual troop movements.)

Americans Appear Safe.

(In Tokyo the Japanese cabinet reported to the Emperor decisions to take "second steps" to deal with the conflict and announced the war and navy ministers would describe the military situation to a joint session of the two chambers of parliament Saturday.)

Heavy firing west of Peiping aroused anxiety for the safety of a group of Americans at Yenching University, missionary-supported school, but these were dispelled when J. Leighton Stuart, the university's president, reached Peiping. He said none of the Americans at Yenching nor any American property there had been molested.

On his journey into the city Stuart, who formerly lived in Baltimore, ran into a skirmish between Japanese and Chinese detachments. He hid in a field until the tide of battle had rolled past.

JAPANESE PREPARE FOR "SECOND STEP"

TOKYO, July 30.—(AP)—The government laid before Emperor Hirohito today plans for "second step" to deal with Papan's steadily widening conflict with China.

Japanese dispatches from China painted an ominous picture, asserting General Chiang already had ordered 50,000 central army troops beyond Paoingfu, sent his chief of staff, General Cheng Chien, to take command and sent some of his air forces northward.

(These Japanese reports were not borne out by Nanking dispatches. Chinese army leaders talked in vague terms of readiness to throw all China's armed strength against Japan, but the most definite statement available was that "central army troops will move from Paoingfu at the expedient time.")

CHINESE GENERAL, FRIENDLY TO JAPANESE, IS KIDNAPED

PEIPING, July 31.—(Saturday) (UP)—Chinese military, in full retreat from the Peiping area, kidnaped General Yin Ju-keng, governor of the Japanese-controlled northeastern area of Kopeh province, delayed reports said today.

Hated by his fellow Chinese because of his friendliness for the Japanese, the ruler of the puppet state was captured by members of the Tungchow peace preservation corps who stormed the east Hopei capital of Tungchow and reportedly annihilated the Japanese.

The peace preservation troops believed that the forces of General Cheh-yuan's 29th route army, overwhelmed by the Japanese here, had attacked Tungchow. They sought to unite with them, but when it was found the 29th army forces had retreated the militiamen also fell back.

TWOC ORGANIZER CLAIMS BEATING

'Chased' Out of Clarksdale by Armed Men, John T. Fenley Charges.

By the Associated Press.

The district office of the Textile Workers' Organizing Committee, headed by A. Steve Nance, charged last night a group of armed men beat an organizer of the union and drove him out of Clarksdale, Ga., in Cobb county, Wednesday.

O. E. Petry, secretary of the Nance faction of the Georgia Federation of Labor, said the organizer, John T. Fenley, of Scotts-dale, and John Hyder were distributing TWOC literature in Clarksdale, an unincorporated town. Petry said the town was owned by the J. and P. Coates Corporation, a thread mill.

Fenley charged two "deputies" of the company were in the group which "ordered" him out of a poolroom, "chased" him across fields and beat him. He said he received two broken ribs, bruises and lacerations of the hip. Petry reported Hyder was not beaten.

W. R. Beldon, superintendent of the Coates mill at Clarksdale, last night declared "I have heard something of the incident but I know no details."

"I don't know of any activities of the CIO group or any other group and anything they (the TWOC) say is the result of any meeting between employers and workers here is unfounded."

P. T. Boyd, chief of police at Clarksdale and a deputy sheriff of Cobb county, said the charge that company deputies participated in the affair was "false." He said he was the only policeman of Clarksdale.

"So far as I can find out there is nothing to it," he said. "No one was hurt and I understand someone just tried to give the men a good scare."

Petry said assault charges would be filed if identification could be made of any of the group he charged with beating the organizer.

ARKANSAS AND TVA TALK POWER CO-OPS

Expansion of Authority Is Step Nearer.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 30.—(UP)—Expansion of the Tennessee Valley Authority into Arkansas was a step nearer tonight following a conference between TVA officials and members of the Arkansas Utilities Commission.

Thomas Fitzhugh, chairman of the Arkansas commission, said chief topic discussed at the conference was the co-operative movement to provide cheap power to rural communities in northeast Arkansas.

"We are particularly interested in the establishment of rural co-operatives," Fitzhugh said, "but our conversation was of a general nature."

ADDITIONAL POLICE FOR ROAD PATROL IN COUNTY HINTED

Reports of Employment Are Heard as Controversy Breaks Out.

Employment of additional county policemen and establishment of a traffic squad headed by a new captain of police was being considered yesterday by members of the Fulton county commission.

Though preliminary plans of a new traffic squad have been discussed and Patrolman Jack Carroll has already been promoted to a lieutenant in view of this, enlargement of the squad and its duties is being contemplated.

Controversy over naming the new captain, with some members favoring elevating Cal Cates and others in favor of promoting Lieutenant R. Frank Jordan, has cropped up within the commission, it was understood.

Though it was reported Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson, chairman of the police committee, has sponsored elevation of Cates, three members of the commission declared they favored making Lieutenant Jordan the new captain.

As reports of the plans for enlarging the county police department grew more and more definite, Commissioner George F. Longino, chairman of the public works committee, asserted yesterday "the county has no money with which to employ any additional men."

Further Rifts Discussed. Rumors that rifts had developed among commissioners over the matter of electing the captain seemed to be ill-founded when Longino, Chairman J. A. Ragsdale, and Dr. C. R. Adams, former chairman, yesterday asserted they favored seniority in promotions.

Longino declared he "knew nothing about" plans to add new men to the police force, pointing out he is not a member of the police committee. Johnson, Ragsdale and Dr. Adams comprise this committee, and as such have a majority vote on the board of commissioners.

"I have heard reports that as many as 16 new police are to be employed," Longino said. "So far suit was brought last spring. She said: 'I haven't read it all yet, alas I know, we are not going to add any.'"

Patrols Planned. In the meantime, it was learned traffic plans include patrolling of all arterial highways leading into and from Atlanta on the north, south and west.

Whether it is planned for the new captain, it elected, to do county-wide duty or to direct the activities of the traffic squad only could not be ascertained.

Conferences among commissioners and County Police Chief George Mathieson concerning the plans are scheduled to be held today, it was said.

Johnson has been at Sea Island, his summer home, but was scheduled to return to Atlanta last night.

Under the new law passed by the legislature this year, Fulton county has the right to regulate traffic and to install and maintain traffic lights. Rules and regulations are now being prepared.

Police Seek Trail of Dog-Poisoner Wanted for 14 Sylvan Hills Deaths

Killer Is Termed 'Maniac' by Master of Latest Victim.

There's no joy in Sylvan Hills and hasn't been for two months—yesterday marked the death of the 14th dog.

Children's vacation play has been ruined, parents told police yesterday. If their dog has not been poisoned, they are miserable fearing theirs will be next.

A personal appeal for aid was made to Chief Hornsby yesterday by A. R. Holbrook, of 954 Dill avenue, whose three-year-old Boston bull pup "Bo" was the last poison victim recorded. The chief promised a thorough investigation, but finding a thing which would poison a pet dog is harder than looking for the proverbial needle.

"Bo" was the pet of two-year-old Jerry Hurd, of 20 Evelyn place, a nephew of Holbrook. He apparently ate the poison in some unknown form Wednesday. He died last night at a dog hospital as tears coursed down Jerry's cheeks.

Holbrook said no one but a "maniac" would have the heart to make children suffer and take the life of a family pet.

The Rev. George N. McLarty Jr., of 1361 Hartford avenue, S. W., whose son, Billy's, "Blackie" was the 13th victim recorded, was philosophical about the deaths.

"The Lord giveth and taketh away," he reasoned. But under the calm there was a note of resentment. Billy misses that dog, neighbors say. He died Wednesday.

Detectives have advised owners to keep their pets under close guard until the poisoner is apprehended. They promise to find the cause of the poison deaths and restore joy to the neighborhood.

MRS. J. S. RHINE DIES AT FLORENCE, S. C.

President of Service Star Legion Born Here.

Mrs. J. S. Rhine, former Atlantan and president of the American Service Star Legion, died Thursday in a private sanitarium in Florence, S. C.

Her mother, Mrs. J. C. Mellichamp, and her brother, R. Gailard Mellichamp, were at her bedside when she died.

Mrs. Rhine went to Florence three weeks ago to visit her sister, Mrs. W. G. Wallace, following a month's stay at the American School of Design in New York.

During the World War her design for the Red Cross poster contest was selected as the official American poster. It portrayed a woman mounted on a white charger, slaying a banner which read, "I Come to Serve."

Her residence was in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Funeral services will be conducted in Florence this morning, with burial in the family plot in Hopewell cemetery, near there.

Surviving are her husband; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mellichamp; five brothers, J. C. Mellichamp Jr., of Fort Lauderdale; E. H. S. A., and D. A. Mellichamp, of New York city; and R. G. Mellichamp, of Clarkdale, and two sisters, Mrs. Wayne E. Mount, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. W. G. Wallace, of Florence.

NLRB TO PROSECUTE CRITIC FOR OUTBREAK

STAMFORD, Conn., July 30.—(P)—Lester P. Barlow, Stamford inventor, informed he would be prosecuted on charges of violating the national labor relations act, threatened today to demand a senate inquiry and to circulate petitions asking impeachment of President Roosevelt.

Louis Y. Gaberman, assistant federal district attorney, announced he would prosecute Barlow as a result of an outburst at a hearing. Barlow accused the board of radicalism and invited the trial examiner to "tell the President of the United States for me to go to hell."

FISHERMEN FIND DROWNING VICTIM

Body of Wellborn Taken From River; Lost His Life in Swimming.

Fishermen yesterday afternoon recovered the body of Luke A. Wellborn, 39, of Austin avenue, who was drowned in the Chattahoochee river Thursday while swimming with two companions near the Bolton bridge.

County officers had dragged the river almost 24 hours before the fishermen discovered the body floating on the surface a mile below the W. & A. railroad bridge near Bolton.

Wellborn, once in the water, threw his car keys to a companion on the bank and said: "If anything happens to me, go for help in the car."

Lieutenant W. A. Wells was in charge of the search. Other witnesses told officers Wellborn dived into the water, came up, shook himself and disappeared under the surface without an outcry.

Surviving are his father, F. G. Wellborn, of 1025 Austin avenue; two brothers, L. M. and J. H. Wellborn; four sisters, Mrs. Ida Reese, of Gainesville, Ga.; Mrs. S. M. Taylor, of Atlanta; Mrs. Laura

The tear-stained cheeks of Billy McLarty, son of the Rev. and Mrs. George N. McLarty, of 1361 Hartford avenue, and his empty leash tell their own story of heartbreak. His was one of the 14 dogs poisoned in the Sylvan Hills area.

ATLANTA-ROSWELL ROAD FUND SET UP

highway, Commissioner Watson pointed out that the road is an important link in Route 9, now one of the most heavily traveled roads in Georgia.

Many Bad Curves. "There are a number of bad curves along this road which makes it extremely dangerous to heavy traffic," he said. "The board believes it is necessary to fix the road as soon as possible."

Most of the projects on which contracts were awarded yesterday are federal aid roads and the awards must be approved by the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

The apparent low bid of one contractor on a Sumter county bridge and grading job was rejected when the board found it unsigned.

The board received a ruling from its legal department it could not accept the unsigned bid of the Collins Contracting Company for $39,168.44 and the award went to the W. L. Cobb Construction Company, of Decatur, for $39,821.13.

Valdosta-Madison Road. One other apparent low bidder was eliminated after correction of bids by the department. The contract for surfacing of 9.435 miles of the Valdosta-Madison, Fla., road went to the Noonan Construction Company of Pensacola, Fla., for $72,488.24 after elimination of the offer of the Vandigriff Construction Company, of Montgomery, Ala., for $66,673.85.

New Home Smeared By Night Marauders

If it had been Halloween, Contractor E. F. Alderman might have explained it—but it was the morning of July 30.

Someone entered the new residence at 96 Beverly road, N. E., smeared paint over the walls and caused nearly $1,000 damage, the contractor estimated.

Paint and creosote was smeared on the finished walls, packages of hardware were broken open and the hardware smashed, he said. City Detectives Pat Campbell and A. J. Stone were assigned to investigate.

Anderson Grogan, 64-year-old former Atlantan, died Thursday afternoon at his residence in St. Petersburg, Fla., after an illness of two years.

Surviving are his wife and two daughters.

WILLIE E. DOUBERLY EXECUTED IN CHAIR

Chatham Slayer Calm as He Pays Supreme Penalty for Crime.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 30.—(P)—Without a statement, 25-year-old Willie E. Douberty died in the electric chair today on a charge of murdering a Savannah filling station operator in a $40 robbery.

With his brother, Leroy Douberty, he was accused of beating Peter Carrells to death with a piece of iron pipe in the latter's filling station and wrecking lot one Sunday afternoon in June, 1936. Both denied the charge. Leroy Douberty was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Douberty appeared resigned to his fate as he was led to the death chamber, at 10:06 a. m. today.

A moment after he entered the death house, the electrodes were applied. Three shocks followed and Douberty was pronounced dead at 10:13 a. m.

GEORGIAN EXECUTED FOR CAROLINA SLAYING

RALEIGH, N. C., July 30.—(P)—A. W. Watson, 21-year-old native of Athens, Ga., and Thomas Perry, 23-year-old negro, were executed today in the North Carolina gas chamber.

Watson was convicted of murdering Thomas Holliday, a filling station attendant in Martin county. Perry died for ravishing a negro at Wake Forest.

It took but eight minutes 58 1-2 seconds to kill Watson, the shortest time recorded since the state began using gas two years ago. Watson's body was claimed by his father, W. B. Watson, (R. F. D. No. 1), Watkinsville, Ga.

TEXAN ELECTROCUTED FOR MURDER OF FOUR

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, July 30.—(P)—George Patton, 35, died in the electric chair at state prison here early today for the murder of a family of four.

Two years ago, after confessing he had killed the family in a quarrel over crop division, he led officers to his pasture and dug up the four skeletons.

Prisoners are moved by trailer in the Texas prison system's "traveling jail."

ATLANTA MOVES AHEAD

Atlanta and the south have advanced still farther along the road of commercial and individual prosperity, according to reports from two fronts this week.

Retail sales in this city for June, by the figures of the monthly review of the Federal Reserve Bank for the sixth district, were greater by 8.4 per cent than in the same month last year and the greatest for any June since 1920, thus maintaining the steady advance of the past few years.

Sales for the entire district were 6.5 per cent above those of June one year ago, while the increase for the first half of the year is 10.5 per cent.

Corroborating this indication of better times in this section is the report of the bankruptcy division of federal court, which showed fewer bankruptcy cases filed for the fiscal year ending June 30 than last year, continuing the steady decline which has been recorded year by year since the peak of the depression in 1932.

These two optimistic barometers reveal the wide spread of the new prosperity which has come to this section. Federal court bankruptcy cases include not only industrial and commercial enterprises, but individual cases also, thus providing a reliable indication of general conditions in all classes of the social order.

Thus the southeast, with Atlanta as its hub, moves steadily forward toward the economic destiny which, unless barred by artificial inequities, is foreseen by all who recognize the natural and human advantages bestowed upon this section by fortuitous fate.

DISILLUSIONMENT, THE TEACHER

Henry Ford sounded a needed note of optimism in an interview granted in connection with his 74th birthday. The great industrialist, declaring he has "nothing but optimism for the future," adds that "disillusionment is a splendid teacher."

Mr. Ford thus expressed his confidence in the basic soundness of America, both in people, government and resources. His optimism will contribute materially toward relieving fear among many who have seen, in recent events, signs and portents of approaching social disruption and vitiation of American democracy.

Mr. Ford pins his confidence on the good sense of the people as a whole and their ability to learn, by trial and error, by calm and analytical consideration, the falsity of one road and the rectitude of another.

All improvement in society, as well as in its individuals, can come only by education. The process is slow, but it is the only road to betterment. False prophets may hold out rain-bow-hued panaceas, but disillusionment is inevitable and, when it comes, the people have advanced through the lesson taught by disappointing experience.

Through the fog of labor conflicts, of radical attempts at cure-alls, and other disruptive activities, the foundation of the government and the strength of American character stand unshaken. Always, as long as the spirit of America shall endure, men will arise to defend the basic liberties of the people and to halt the swing toward regimentation before it goes too far.

Little men with overgreat ambitions may rise, temporarily, with their open or insidious threats, but the American people are daily learning new lessons and never can the apostle of un-American 'isms' win the day against the love of liberty that created this nation and that continues to protect from foes either within or without.

POOR CHILD

A three-year-old girl, given the "I. Q." or intelligence quotient test, rates 189 points, or 54 more than the accepted 135 of genius.

The little girl knows all the cards in the deck, metaphorically and literally. She adds and subtracts with ease and her baby vocabulary includes such words as extraordinary, enjoyment and atrocious. She uses a smattering of French expressions and her vocabulary is placed in the category of an eight-year-old, though not many eight-year-olds, it is admitted, talk in two languages and use such multi-syllable words.

All of which arouses a sentiment of pity for the child. Already rated at eight, when her year count is only three, she has lost five years of normal life development. If the present rate continues her mentality when she is 30 years old will be that of a woman of 80. The thought is awful to contemplate.

Think, also, of the strain of living up to a scientific classification beyond that of genius! The girl, to maintain her reputation, must outshine genius all her life and it will require all her ingenuity, great though it may be, to silence the doubting Thomases and carping critics who will stand on the sidelines to disparage as she marches down the highway of life.

Life prospects are not happy for such an abnormal prodigy. The happy child is the one who blantly tells mother, at the dinner table, "I've had enough." Not the gosh-awful babe who, to convey the same idea, remarks, "gastronomic satiety admonishes I have reached the ultimate deglutition consistent with dietetic integrity."

SETTING A GOOD EXAMPLE

According to Mayor Hartsfield's stand against salary increases for city employees at this time, City Attorney J. C. Savage announces he has withdrawn a request for higher salaries for the first and second assistant city attorneys.

"Desiring to co-operate with the administration in every possible way," Mr. Savage says in his letter to the mayor, "and to do nothing to afford you or the general council the slightest embarrassment, I withdraw, for the time being, my request for increases in the salaries of these gentlemen."

He further points out, however, that the two officials concerned are paid less than corresponding officers in other cities of comparable size to Atlanta.

Atlanta must, at this time especially, predicate her entire city government on the most economical operation possible. The floating deficit of $1,700,000 must be eliminated as rapidly as possible. Mayor Hartsfield and other responsible officers recognize that there must not be any recurrence of the perilous financial condition in which the city found itself last January, threatening its credit and bringing a lower rating for its bonded obligations than it had enjoyed in the past.

Salary raises are out of the question at this time. The good financial name of the city must come first. The city attorney has set an example that all city department heads should follow.

A BLOTCH ON CIVILIZATION

Senorita Pilara La Fuente, 22-year-old Spaniard, proudly boasts she has "slit the throats" of a thousand wounded Rebels during her service in the Loyalist fighting lines around Madrid. Truly, the womanhood of Spain, the "dark-eyed senoritas" of romantic song and story, must blush behind their fans at this example of womanly achievement in their so-called civilized country in the twentieth century.

Spain, a country which has claimed a place in the vanguard of cultured progress for many centuries, must today look with understanding fellowship upon those poor savages of the remotest fastnesses of Africa whose women camp followers are reputed to perpetrate unmentionable atrocities upon disabled foes.

Civilization is, after all, not far removed from barbarity. All the teaching and all the heritage of the centuries have not lifted mankind far from the level of the beast when such women as Senorita La Fuente can win acclaim for a record parallel with that of the most fiendish female of the most primitive tribes remaining on earth.

There is a heritage of cruelty and of blood in the strain that makes up the Spanish nation of today. A reversion, perhaps, to those fierce Visigoths and Vandals and Moors who have all contributed their characteristics to the breed that now inhabits Spain. A cruel breed of men, and women too, who evinced their sadistic leanings in the horror days of the inquisition, who left a trail of outrageous inhumanity behind them in Mexico and the New World, and whose atavistic traits are cropping out again in this year of 1937 as they destroy each other in internecine strife that ignores even the crude chivalry of the battlefield.

It will be centuries before the dishonor that now stains the name of Spain is wiped away. It will take generations of new men and new women, devoted to progress and gentle humanity, to art and science and culture, to erase from the memories of truly civilized mankind the shuddering shame that arises from the phantasmagoria of horror created by such as Senorita Pilara La Fuente, "La Libertaria."

Editorial of the Day

THE FRUITS OF AMBIGUITY

(From the New York Herald Tribune.)
The British royal commission announces that the situation they found in Palestine was no longer a mere matter of adjustable rights and wrongs, it had become an irresolvable "conflict of right with right." And this conflict springs, as they note toward the end of the report, from the unhappy fact that "the obligations Britain undertook some 20 years ago have proved irreconcilable."

There were four of them. There was the pledge to the Arabs, in October, 1915, promising them independent nationhood within boundaries whose limits the British regrettably failed to make clear to the Arabs. There was the secret Sykes-Picot agreement of May, 1916, with the French, further narrowing these limits without the Arabs being apprised of the fact. There was Mr. Balfour's celebrated pledge of November, 1917, to the Jews, worded with a delicate ambiguity as a "promise" when promising the Jews an independent sovereign state and promising them only the territorial enclave—which might have enlisted them less enthusiastically for the Allied cause. Finally there was the pledge carried in the mandate of 1922 to raise Palestine ultimately to statehood. It is from the unfortunate interaction of these disparate undertakings that the subsequent crisis has been won.

The Arabs might cheerfully have resigned Palestine to the Jews had the territorial settlements (springing from the Sykes-Picot agreement) not severely disappointed them elsewhere; or it might have been easier to suppress subsequent Arab nationalism in Palestine had not the undertaking as to self-government in the mandate and the fulfillment of similar undertakings in respect to Iraq, Transjordan and Syria) supplied legal fuel for its fires. The Jews might have been content with only a part of Palestine to begin with had the original commitment to the Arabs been more precise; or more ready to limit their later aspirations had not Mr. Balfour's "promise" wording encouraged the idea of a Jewish state. Finally, all parties might more easily have resolved their differences had Zion remained the rather struggling and comparatively small-scale experiment it was in the early 20s.

It was the magnificent success which the Jewish people made of it that has exposed the jerry-built legal foundations supplied by British ambiguity. A product of the original unfrankness and imprecision, the commissioners now find in those elusive pledges no "just" basis for a visible settlement; they propose, therefore, with the assent of the League powers and the United States, to cut the Gordian knot in a manner as little painful as they can devise. It is a confession of failure. But what else could they do?

Behind Washington Headlines

By H. R. BAUKHAGE.

WANT ADJOURNMENT WASHINGTON, July 30.—Surprising as it may seem, the administration wouldn't be a bit mad if congress packed up and went home this minute.

It isn't advertised, quite the contrary, but the high strategy at the time of this writing is to get them out of town as soon as possible. The theory is this: If the legislators go home with most of the program uncompleted, the New Deal plan to take the issue to the country in the fall will be that much more effective. Exhibit A would likely read, "Congress did nothing for you."

After this plan had been broached to the Democratic leaders (minus Vice President Garner) Senator Barkley's approving silence resounded.

But House Leader Sam Rayburn didn't like the idea so well. He wanted to score up a few hits before the game was called on account of rain, so his colleagues would have something to tell the folks at home about.

WOULD SEEK FORGIVENESS There are, of course, a certain few in the senate of those who opposed the court bill who would like to stay here long enough to do at least one good deed or two and secure, if they could, presidential forgiveness.

But they would be taking a risk, for Senator Minton's amendment, or another similar measure reviving the court issue, would mean another chance for the administration to separate the sheep from the goats.

SOME BLACK MARKS A shiver would run down the backs of some of the members of congress if they could see a certain list not too prominently displayed on the President's desk.

It shows the senators and representatives whose voices were loudest on economy when certain administration measures were being discussed, but who recently voted to override the presidential veto on the bill extending low-rate interest on farm loans.

Some of these men—especially those who have no farm constituents, and whose votes were interpreted as merely an attempt to embarrass the administration—have black marks after their names. They may hear something from them later.

NEW MOONEY CHAPTER Another chapter in the get-Mooney-out-of-jail serial is about to be written with a new collaborator.

None other than William Gibbs McAdoo, United States senator from California and candidate for the same office in 1938. Some time ago a bill was introduced in both houses memorializing the Governor of California on the subject of Tom Mooney's release. Usually states memorialize congress. This is one of the few times the process was reversed.

The proposal had the usual Mooney supporters and that was about all.

A few days ago there was a mass meeting in San Francisco where, it is said, numbered 35,000 (a lot of votes), demanding Mooney's freedom.

Now Senator McAdoo privately announces that he will soon come out urging immediate hearings on the bill. About half the California delegation has promised to support the measure.

AIR-COOLING DELAYED The court fight, upon whose head most of Washington's evils are laid, has held up the completion of the $4,000,000 air-conditioning project which will eventually make the capitol, the senate office building and the two house office buildings 100 per cent equipped. The work was to have been finished by August 15, but congress being in session has interfered with the plans.

Today visitors to the crowded corridors outside the senate and house perspire while lucky ones inside enjoy the contrast of heated debate and tempered atmosphere.

All of the new and most of the comparatively new government buildings are air-cooled (and heated) and gradually the systems are being expanded. The only federal building outside of Washington so blessed is the United States courthouse in New York. Naturally, federal employees in the south are being heard from.

The White House has individual air conditioning in some of the rooms and the executive offices are equipped throughout.

As usual, when we brag about this "modern innovation," we forget one White House bedroom was air-cooled temporarily in Garfield's time. It was when the martyred President lay dying there, too ill to be moved. Machinery used for clearing the air in mines was used.

TOO MANY COOKS Enemies of the "seven TVA's" the plan embodied in the bill introduced by Senator Norris providing for seven new "Authorities" similar to the Tennessee Valley yardstick, were filled with glee when the Department of Agriculture representatives criticized the venture.

It seems that Senator Norris filled the measure with references to agriculture. He wanted it referred to the committee on agriculture and forestry where he hoped it would be sympathetically received.

It wasn't. At least Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Wilson stated very plainly that it would result in too many cooks and the broth would be spoiled. Duplication of effort and authority was the charge.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

Pigeons wing their lazy way
Down canyon ways of stone
Where hazy mortals strive all day
In frenzied commerce zone.

I wonder if, on gliding wing,
Those birds are not more wise,
They fret not over anything,
Nor ways of wealth devise.

Decent Man's Burden.

I wonder if it isn't largely true to assume that a majority of the individuals engaged in the various projects devised by the relief agency of the federal government to provide for the unemployed are not, actually, the incompetents of their trades or professions?

And if, such being the case, the great mass of the self-respecting, self-supporting population might not resign themselves to providing continued support for these unreluctant ones?

Always we have had the misfits and failures with us. Formerly they either lived upon the charity of their families, or failed altogether to survive. Wasn't it Elia Wheeler Wilcox who wrote a poem on the thesis that there are just two kinds of people in the world, the lifters and the leaneers?

Probably the only change modern social security has actually made is that the lifters are going to carry the leaneers through tax payments from now on, instead of by individual charity.

These "Writing" Projects, For Instance.

It has always been an exceedingly hard thing for the would-be author to secure a foothold in the world of magazines or a hearing from book publishers. And of those who aspire to literary success but a small proportion ever win. There have been the numerous failures, always. Some, in the past, have ultimately realized their unfitness and have found new goals for their aspirations. Others have sunk into the ranks of self-confessed failure.

Today the demand for competent authorship is greater than ever before and the rewards offered are more alluring. There are more first class magazines begging for worth-while contributors. More publishers looking for more "Gone With the Winds."

And the new writers who deserve success are winning it. New names are found every month in scores of magazines.

Those who cannot command literary success, however, are living on the vest of us through one of the varied "writers' projects" of the WPA. Which may be logical and proper. I don't know.

Then, Hear

The Musicians.

The live, wide-awake musician who can adapt himself to modern ideas in tempo and musical style, can find more jobs calling for him than ever before in the history of music. Not the same kind, exactly, as of old, to be sure. But good jobs, nevertheless. Jobs in the innumerable dance orchestras found everywhere, in the night clubs that spring up on every urban side, in radio and in other fields.

Not many legitimate theaters left with their orchestra pits, to be sure, but for everyone of these that has gone there are a score of dance floors with their snappy dance orchestras.

Think of you that the passing of the legitimate stage and the depression played havoc with the musical profession. I mean the average player in the average orchestra. And that WPA has to provide means for their support.

Well, with only a few exceptions, the smart musicians aren't found in WPA projects today. They are playing the new swing music you hear over the radio of to which you shake your wicked hip in your favorite night hot spot.

The Artists.

Too.

And in the fields of art, painting, sculpture and the rest. Aren't the competent ones, fit to keep abreast with modern times, struggling through to fame, as always? And aren't the failures dropping by the artistic wayside, as always? Sure, except today they're dropping by the wayside instead of into other jobs for which they were better fitted by nature.

Understand, I'm not criticizing. It may be, probably is, quite all right. It's just a new way we have adopted of doing the job of lifting that will always be required so long as man's humanity to man extends, as it must, to the great host of the leaneers.

Twenty-Five

Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Wednesday, July 31, 1912:

"The crucial moment in the trial of Mrs. Daisy Grace came at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon when Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey began laying the foundation to show that the snug little fortune of $25,000 was the tempting morsel which caused the woman to, allegedly, attempt the murder of her boyish husband in the home in West Eleventh street, last March."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Sunday, July 31, 1887:

"The Conversazione club continues to be largely attended, and the members all take great interest. The meeting Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. H. T. Bell, on Simpson street, was one of the pleasantest yet held by the club. A programme of two readings and two recitations was given by Misses Lulu Bell and May Ashworth and Messrs. J. B. Jackson and L. W. Arnold."

JEWISH VETERANS REGRET BIBLE PLAN

Editor Constitution: We wish to compliment you on your editorial with regard to the proposed purchase of Bibles by the state, for the pupils of the public schools.

We wish further to go on record in opposition to such movement as strictly un-American in spirit.

Our organization represents men of the Jewish faith who have fought for the freedom and liberty for which this republic stands, and it is with deep regret that such a movement should have even been contemplated, and it is more deeply regretted that some of our leading citizens should find reasons for the support of same.

We shall in the same spirit that has won for us the liberties enjoyed by us, continue to fight against this proposed action, and should appreciate any publicity which you may see fit to give this matter.

ATTORNEY CITES ACT BARRING BIBLE PURCHASE

Editor Constitution: I wish to be among those who will commend your editorial of this date, entitled "The Bible in School." I feel the lawyers, as well as the judiciary of the state, will agree that your conclusion that the purchase of 800,000 Bibles would be violative, not only of the spirit, but of the letter of the constitutions of the state and the United States.

However, I wish to call attention to the resolution of the State School Board, which states that the purchase of Bibles is to be made for the purpose of combating Communism in Georgia.

In this connection, I am more or less in public life, and I have to meet anyone whom I could describe as a Communist. I believe you could search the entire state with a "fine tooth comb" and could not find any such "creature" within its borders.

The State School Board, created by the Georgia legislature, has authority to buy textbooks for the use of pupils in the public schools. The source of income for these books is derived from tax realized from the sale of beer, as provided under section 10 of the malt beverages act of 1935, (see page 78 of the Acts of Georgia Legislature) which is as follows: "Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that funds derived from this act shall be appropriated as follows: An amount not to exceed 3 per centum (3 per cent) of the revenue annually shall be paid to the State Revenue Commission for enforcing this act; the remainder shall be set apart and devoted for the support of the common schools of the state, and used for the purpose of furnishing free textbooks to the children attending common schools, and it is hereby declared such purpose to be for and in support of such schools."

It will be seen from this act that all money derived from such source, less 3 per cent, which is to be utilized for the purchase of textbooks, and no one can say that a provision is made in this act for the use of this money to combat Communism as provided in the resolution.

The proposition is so preposterous and absurd, that I feel of its own weight, and I do not feel you can go too far in your condemnation thereof. In every respect it is impregnated with danger, and deserves the disapproval of all our citizens.

A. E. WILSON.
Atlanta, July 30, 1937.

SCHOOL BOARD I AUDED FOR BIBLE PROPOSAL

Editor Constitution: I heartily congratulate the Georgia State Education Board for its proposal to furnish every student a Bible. This is a noble and holy movement which ought to be encouraged by all our Christian citizens.

Since 1863 "The National Reform Association" has been endeavoring to achieve such a worthy act in every state of our Union. It was a great surprise to me to read in the local paper about the antagonistic attitude of certain prominent ministers of the gospel towards this most excellent movement of our State Education Board.

There is a great gap in our national life, and I am sure that this "holy proposal" is endeavoring to fill up this gap.

This is a Christian country and it must be ruled, more or less, by the Christian principles which are in the Holy Bible. Jew and Gentile, believer and unbeliever, all are enjoying the privileges and blessings of this Christian country. There is no such thing as Jewish Bible or Catholic Bible—there is only one Bible, the "Humanity Bible," the Word of God to all generations.

The church and the home are not reaching the majority of our youth. Millions of our youth are spending most of their time in the schoolroom. Truly our schools are shaping the lives of our young folks. By placing the Bible in the schools we will help our youth in forming their character in the right way. Again, I say, this is a Christian country and must be ruled, more or less, by the Christian principles which are in the Bible. Please, for God's sake, let us not deprive our public schools from this most "Blessed Book"—the Guide of Our Lives.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My Dear Louise:

You are growing up. Yesterday I saw you laughing over the diary you kept when you were nine, and that's a sure sign of progress. At that age you were in the midst of childhood's happy martyrdom. Nothing else was quite so thrilling as feeling sorry for yourself.

The "wienie" incident was typical. You had helped plan a wienie roast and a cold drizzle came out of the north to spoil it. Some of the older boys and a few girls went anyway, but the chaperone didn't and I couldn't share your idea that you were obligated to sit on a wet rock on the bank of a creek and catch pneumonia.

You kept all evening. And next day, though the sun shone brightly, you pouted in your room and steeped your soul in martyrdom and enjoyed your misery.

I knew how you felt, for I remembered my own martyr age. On one occasion, when some perversity of the adult world had hurt my feelings, the burden of woe proved too great and I couldn't take it.

From my pouting place indoors I could hear the happy shouts of carefree boys playing in the vacant lots above the lumberyard; a little breeze stirred the window curtains, bringing in the mingled odors of lilacs and apple blossoms and new-plowed earth; the birds were singing, the sun shining, and the strange sweet paths of spring made the world almost too wonderful to endure.

The knowledge that I could enter all that happiness merely by being willing to do it proved too much for me. I suddenly resolved to quit being miserable and raced from the house with the glad cry of one released from prison.

Since then I have learned that most of those who live in misery despite good health are merely pouting.

If they were frank about it, they would say: "Of course I could be happy if I were content to endure this situation; but I don't like it and I refuse to be happy under such circumstances. I can't arrange things my way, but at least I can stay mad at a world that doesn't suit me."

Their misery is nine parts self-made. They are like stubborn children refusing to give in and be happy except on their own terms. Maybe you've outgrown it; but when you feel a misery coming on, you'd better check it carefully to make sure it isn't a pouting spell.

Love,
DAD.

"reath close upon the ashes—
It may be flame will leap..."

It may be that both flame and fortune will leap for the producers of a motion picture entitled "They Won't Forget," which Life described last fortnight as "strongly sociological," but which can as well be described as a bitter and harmful play upon sectional prejudice. The title comes from one of the picture's scenes where Confederate veterans, on Memorial Day, express a fear that southerners will soon forget them, but one insists: "They won't forget." With a story based on the Leo Frank case in Georgia and the Scottsboro case in Alabama, the picture's nobly "sociological" implication seems to be that northerners will be hated, suspected and unfairly treated in the south forever and forever.

This may be sociology but it is not psychology. Not decent psychology at any rate. Neither is it good patriotism. There is all the difference in the world between breathing new flame upon passions and prejudices and seeking, through reason and calm exposition, to eliminate or allay them. This picture is merely inflammatory. It can do no conceivable good, and it is likely to do a great deal of harm.

We are as much in favor of exposing and whipping southern vice now as we are in favor of recognizing and extolling southern virtue

FILM CONTESTANTS WILL GIVE SHOW

Group Plans To Entertain Guests of Wieuca Inn in Big Program Tonight.

By LILLIE MAE ROBINSON.

A number of talented contestants in The Constitution's Screen Test feature will entertain guests at Wieuca Inn tonight, in a well-rounded floor show.

On two previous occasions groups of these aspirants to film careers have made public appearances at Atlanta night clubs, and selections were made for parts in the skits which will make up the film being produced by the Visual Film Company, for Astral Productions, of Hollywood.

At least one of the contestants on tonight's program will be given a featured or supporting role in one of the skits which will make up the film, "Atlanta's Screen Debutantes," now under production.

Featured on Program.

Featured at 10 o'clock at Wieuca Inn will be Mary Duncan, adagio dancer; Carl and Joan Bennett, a clever dance team; Josephine Murphy, blues singer; Embury and Earl Hassler, clever tap dancers. This pair will also present a comedy number. These boys have delighted Atlanta audiences on numerous other occasions.

Others on the program include Eleanor Hazel Kibler, a 10-year-old acrobatic dancer; Gene Beverly, 10 years old, known locally for her tap dancing and personality singing; and Elmer Gundberg, who sends the indicator of the scales shooting around to the tune of 350 pounds. He will do imitations and burlesques on movie stars. He will also present vocal selections in his unmatchable falsetto.

Clifford T. Burgess, executive manager of Astral Productions, and Jack Marco, who is directing "Atlanta Screen Debutantes," announce that they have not completed selections for personnel of the film.

GERMAN CLUB TO GIVE OLD HEIDELBERG PARTY

"A Night in Old Heidelberg" is to be presented by the German-American Club at 80 Fourteenth street, N. E., tonight. A Dutch supper will be served from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock.

The clubhouse gardens will be turned into a characteristic old-fashioned Heidelberg beer garden, portraying student life in old Heidelberg, with music and songs characteristic of ancient Germany. The party will be for men only. Karl Pathe, secretary, announced.

LEWIS MCARTY RITES HELD HERE YESTERDAY

Funeral services for Lewis Brock McCarty, 52, were held at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Peachtree chapel of Brandon-Bond-Condor. The Rev. Earl Fuller officiated, with burial in West View cemetery.

Mr. McCarty was an employee of the Federal Reserve Bank here, and before coming to Atlanta from Demopolis, Ala., had been employed as a cotton buyer.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS'It Can't Last Forever'
Is Feature at Rialto

Fame is sweet but "It Can't Last Forever."

This, Ralph Bellamy, posing as a master mind in the new Columbia picture, "It Can't Last Forever," which opened yesterday at the Rialto theater, learned. Bellamy and Robert Armstrong, show business agents, discover Raymond Walburn, a phony psychic, has an impressive radio voice, put him under contract and seek to capitalize on him. But, when the time comes for the broadcast, Walburn is killed, and Bellamy takes his place.

The agents "fix" situations so they can prognosticate correctly and impress all except one newspaper reporter, Betty Furness. A gangster enters the plot to capitalize on letters received in fan mail, getting the master mind in "dutch" with all concerned.

Miss Furness goes out to "break" the set-up but is defeated by love. Then follows a mad scramble to break away from the racketeer and the master mind setup and to escape to South America on a honeymoon for Ralph and Betty.

Throughout the picture is filled with comedy which is most amusing. Short subjects complete the program. S. W.

TWO ARE ARRESTED IN WILD-WEST FEUD

Pair Held in Attempt on Life of Inspector.

FLORENCE, Ariz., July 30.—(AP) The bloody "haunted corral" feud, patterned along rough lines of the old, blustery west, brought two arrests today.

After a week of tramping over wild hinterland near Arivaipa canyon Sheriff Laveen said he had arrested Bill Wheeler and Joe Townner.

They are charged with attempted murder of A. B. (Doc) Deaver, state cattle sanitary inspector. He was shot July 22 as he and Joe Fliegler, rancher and ex-rodent star, rode their horses down a precipitous canyon.

Undersheriff Cochran linked the attempt with the killing of Henry Townner, another rancher, and brother of Joe, seven weeks ago in what he said was a ranch feud.

KAISER IS PAID VISIT
BY EX-QUEEN VICTORIA

DOORN, Netherlands, July 30.—(AP)—Former Queen Victoria Eugenia of Spain, heavily veiled, motored alone from Germany today to visit former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany.

She remained indoors with the former Kaiser.

It was known Wilhelm told former King Alfonso two years ago that "I hope I can see Queen 'Ena' before I die."

Household officials denied, however, that the visit concerned reconciliation between the queen and Alfonso, from whom she has been separated since 1908 after they fled from Spain in 1931.

FORD TO BOOST PRICES, BEGINNING MONDAY

DETROIT, July 30.—(AP)—The Ford Motor Company announced price increases of $15 to $35 to-night on several passenger models in its 1937 line. A statement attributed the move to "rising costs."

The "base price" of the Ford line remains unchanged, a spokesman said. The revised schedule becomes effective Monday.

TRIPOLI, Tripolitania, July 30.—(AP)—Four native camel corps troopers were sentenced to death today and three to life imprisonment on charges of murdering their Italian commander, Lieutenant Biondi, December 28, 1935.

Another trooper was given a 10-year prison term and a ninth prisoner a one-year sentence.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., July 30.—(UP)—Efforts to save his horse from possible death by lightning brought death to John O'Brien, 16, of Moores.

'Angel's Holiday' Opens
For Run at Paramount

Atlanta's own little Jane Wither, as mischievous as ever, is back again this week at the Paramount in "Angel's Holiday."

Anyone who has ever seen the little Atlanta miss in action knows she is far from an angel and can expect many tricks of devilishness. As background for her misdeeds, she plays amateur sleuth. She tracks down a gang of kidnapers and plagues them no end. They eventually welcome the refuge of a jail rather than be subjected to the torments of the little pepper pot.

Jane, not content with this accomplishment, upsets a faked disappearance of a movie star and reunites two former sweethearts. The kid is continuously in mischief and when in such, there's bound to be fun.

Starred with Jane are Robert Kent, Joan Davis, Sally Blane and others. "Angel's Holiday," a 20th Century Fox picture, is directed by James Tinling.

News, comedy and short subjects complete the bill. E. T.

Taylor, Stanwyck Star
In 'This Is My Affair'

"This is my affair," Lieutenant Richard L. Perry, portrayed by Robert Taylor, told Lil, Barbara Stanwyck, just before he went on a little adventure which almost proved to be his "last affair" in Twentieth Century-Fox's story of a reckless naval lieutenant who gambles with love, endangering the nation's highest places, and finally with his own life as the stake.

Opening for a week's run at the Fox last night, "This Is My Affair" presents the screen's most talked-about off-screen lovers in the most important roles the two stars have ever had.

The action takes place during the era of the "gay nineties," just when Teddy Roosevelt first got his idea about "the big stick." When a band of bank bandits became so active as to furnish a menace to the executive branches of the national government, President McKinley decided to adopt his vice president's idea of the "big stick" in the form of ultra-secret special agents known only to himself.

Result was that the dashing Lieutenant Perry, who had distinguished himself for his ability to talk himself out of several "scrapes," was conscripted by the President to lead himself of his identity, join up with the bandits and learn the identity of the "higher up" who evidently kept them well informed on bank vault combinations and various other incidents necessary to the successful process of robbing a bank.

In practically no time the lieutenant is in the thick of the gang, where he finds Lil an unwitting partner in the bandits' corporation.

Climax of the situation is reached when the lieutenant and his "partner" are arrested in the act of robbing a bank. The arrest was arranged by Perry in order that he might obtain information as to the identity of the gang's "brain trust."

The subsequent events, however, were quite unlooked for, and the lieutenant is left facing a sentence to hang with no one to reveal his true identity but the President, who lies dying from an assassin's bullet.

Victor McLaglen heads a strong supporting cast which includes Brian Donlevy, Sidney Blackmer, Alan Dinehart, Robert McWade and several others.

IT'S A "CORNOAT."

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 30.—(AP)—Trammer Crook, who does a bit of garden farming here, thinks he may have something new in a "corncoat." Today he exhibited an ear of corn that had oats apparently growing between the rows.

J. T. KILLEN PASSES AT HOME IN MACON

Well-Known Mercantile Executive Succumbs to Heart Attack.

MACON, Ga., July 30.—(AP)—J. T. (Tim) Killen, 62, president of the Union Dry Goods Company and one of the best known merchants in Georgia, died at his residence here today of a heart attack.

Mr. Killen returned two days ago from New York, where he suffered a kidney ailment.

Funeral services will be held at the home tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, with Rev. Ed Cook officiating.

Mrs. Killen was the former Miss Georgia Lee Hawkins, of Americus. In addition to her, their son, Eugene, and Mrs. Adams, Mr. Killen is survived by another son, J. Tim Killen Jr., an electrical engineer of New York; a small grandson, J. W. Adams III; a niece, Mrs. Andrew Lyndon, of Macon; a brother-in-law, Dr. G. T. Miller, also of Macon; an aunt, Mrs. Florence Swanson; a cousin, Mrs. Florence Cox Swanson, of Perry, and other relatives.

Mr. Killen was born in Perry in 1875. His father had been a public officeholder in Houston county. He was a member of several clubs here.

'Coffee Grinder'
Phones Doomed
By Commission

The "coffee grinder" telephone soon will be history as far as Georgia is concerned.

The Public Service Commission yesterday issued an order permitting the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company permission to take out the "model T" phones in Forsyth and install modern equipment at an increased cost of 50 cents per month to each subscriber.

Mayor A. T. Willingham, of the Monroe county seat, told the commission that "all but a few" of the city's 279 telephone subscribers agreed to the increase.

The commission has set similar petitions for subscribers in Louisville, Wadley and Swainsboro for hearing August 11. Inasmuch as a large majority of subscribers in these three cities already have agreed to pay increased costs for the change it is presumed the commission will order out some more "coffee grinders" on that date.

BANK IN THOMASVILLE IS FULLY LIQUIDATED

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 30.—The Peoples Savings Bank, of Thomasville, which closed its doors January 23, 1933, will pay a final dividend of 5 per cent to its depositors Monday, bringing the total to 100 per cent. The dividend will aggregate $8,470.76, bringing the total of all dividend payments to depositors to $228,742.59, liquidating in full claims of depositors.

The remaining assets of the bank, which consist primarily of real estate in Thomasville and Thomas county, probably will be turned over to the stockholders.

REICH WAR VETERANS

BERLIN, July 30.—(AP)—German veterans of the World War were preparing tonight to observe the 23rd anniversary of the war's outbreak Sunday with a "mobilization for peace."

One hundred thousand veterans were expected to gather in the Olympic stadium for the observance.

THE GUMPS—THE STORM

ADVENTURE IN LOVE

By KATHRYN BEMIS WILSON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: While Velma Wilkins is receiving guests for a dinner party she is giving in her sumptuous home on Chicago's Gold Coast, Flanders Smith asks her to delay longer in announcing their engagement. She hesitates, saying she is not ready, thinking again of the different ages in their ages—she is 18, he is 35—but he is insistent and as other guests arrive he goes to the library to ask her father, Reed Wilkins, to make the announcement on her exclusive list. Virginia Dewey, the unattractive daughter of Merry Dewey, who has been in a running deal with Wilkins, is at her father's request that she has included Virginia. Velma knows that her father is not enthusiastic over having a son-in-law the man who gossips say is edging his way into the great Wilkins fortune. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

INSTALLMENT II.

His round face was more florid than usual tonight. He looked years older. His wide shoulders sagged as if he had lost a battle and had no power to go on. All too often, a chill shot through him. He was not willingly giving his daughter to this man so much her senior. If Velma desired it, he supposed he'd have to consent. He always had consented to the majority of her whims, which, luckily, she flung aside before much havoc was wrought. Marriage, though, wasn't a whim. Or was it to these strangely irresponsible modern youths?

He gulped down another goblet of champagne to steady his nerves. He'd better get this announcement over with before he lost his courage. Never do to allow a future son-in-law to suspect that doubt hovered in the back of your mind. He got to his feet uncertainly, clutching his chair for support. The room began spinning around and around. The animated conversation, the tinkling of china and glass, became a dull rumbling in his ears. He opened his mouth to speak, but his voice gurgled in his throat. He gasped heavily, and tumbled in a heap to the floor.

It was all over within a few minutes. The doctors had come and gone. The frightened guests had departed. The commotion had subsided into deep awful silence. The sickening realization that Reed Wilkins had died before the eyes of half a hundred guests and nearly as many servants was all that remained for the morning newspapers.

Velma seemed to have no volition of her own. Flanders Smith led her away, gave her with strict admonitions into the hands of Rush, her personal maid. She was put to bed, too stunned for tears. She lay there inert, Rush under a dim light at the far side of the bedroom, keeping watch over her. Flanders finally came in after supervising all last arrangements for the man he had hoped to call his father-in-law. He gently ran his fingers through the waves of Velma's silky blond hair. She responded with a sigh as his lips brushed her forehead. Her dry burning eyes closed in grateful acknowledgment of his, "Go to sleep, darling. I'll take care of you now, now, dear."

He tiptoed from the room and she dropped into fitful slumber, thankful for male strength to lean upon in this critical lonely hour. . . . Flanders—who loved her. She clung desperately to Flanders Smith all through the ordeal.

of her father's big impressive church funeral, and the coming back afterward to the great house, heavy with grim silence and the memory of her father's presence.

For days, Flanders anticipated her every wish. He stepped easily into the role of protector. He got rid of callers, acquaintances and old friends, both of her father and herself. Velma did not call to see any of them. He got rid of shy-sters, already trying to grab her inheritance. He sent great bouquets and set floral pieces of overpowering fragrance to hospitals. Velma thought she never could endure the scent of flowers again. The ugliest piece of all was a mammoth wreath of calla lilies and pansies sent by Merry Dewey. Velma angrily ordered Rush to throw it out!

Velma's deeply bitter grief nearly overwhelmed her. She had not before fully realized what her father had meant to her. He had been more than parent. He had been companion for a lonely child, a friend and advisor, and for her budding womanhood; he she felt that life, even under Flanders' protective urbanity, never would be the same again.

Stout, efficient Mary Eggleston, who had been housekeeper in the Wilkins mansion since Velma's birth, tried to mother this pathetically lonely young girl, tried to reconcile her to her loss. "But I loved my dad, Mary—" she said. "—Oh, I loved him so!" There seemed to be no one but Flanders to whom Velma could cling. Even he, at times, did not appear to comprehend exactly what her sorrow was like. "Perhaps, though, a man could," she thought forlornly.

Finally, Ruggles Capp, who had long been her father's attorney, called her on the telephone. "The matter of the will, Velma," he hinted kindly. "If we could make an appointment to—"

"Oh, must I bother with it—just yet?" Her voice sounded thin, unnatural, tears brimmed her eyes. "Yes, I believe you must," he replied firmly. "It's important you should know how you stand financially."

She made a grimace into the mouthpiece. She was very fond of this man she had known since childhood. She sighed impatiently. She'd like to tell him to bother her with stupid money matters. She was awfully good at writing checks. Wasn't that enough? But she said obediently, "Try well, Mr. Capp—I'll come right down."

Velma's long-slung cream-colored roadster toiled along the smooth concrete of Michigan boulevard. The invigorating trickle of lake breeze blew blond curls from under her black straw sailor. "After all," she thought, "it's just as well to get all annoying business details over with as soon as possible."

She stopped for Flanders, who came hurrying out of the skyscraper where he shared a bond office with several other men. He looked handsome in a new dove-colored spring suit, his clean-shaven face lighting at the sight of her.

"How's my sweetheart this morning?" he asked giving her one of his devastating looks from under half-closed lids, as he took his place beside her. A swift sense of pride swept through her. Pride of him, of herself for attaching so magnetic a male creature to her orbit of existence.

"Feeling much better, Flanders—thank you. I don't know how I've managed without you."

"I've done very little," he said. "Something intangible flared in Flanders' eyes when Mr. Capp began to read from the paper held in his unsteady hand. Velma's slightly tinted lips were rigidly set; she stared at the bald spot above Ruggles Capp's furrowed brow, her black-gloved hands clenched in her lap.

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK. Several years ago, a book I had written, "The Child's Story of the Human Race," was translated into Japanese, and ever since that time I have been getting letters from Japanese readers. Now and then a Japanese magazine has come to me, or a batch of picture postcards, or some other little present.

Only the other day, a parcel arrived from a Japanese woman whom I have never met. She sent me several yards of cloth made in her country. It was "block printed," probably by hand.

Most of the letters from Japanese readers tell of their wish to be friendly toward people of other nations. If you read in the papers of the Japanese army making an attack on some other country, do not believe it means that the plain people of Japan want war. Only two or three months ago, an election showed that most of the Japanese voters were in favor of a party which wants peace.

The great majority of the letters are written in Japanese, but some are written in English. The other day, this one reached me: Dear Mr. Ramon Coffman:

"It is the first time that I write my letter in English. I was taught very many knowledges by your work. The 'World Human History' is easy to understand, is very interesting, especially about ancient children's lives. I have read many histories, and was taught at school. But in these histories was written about war, and 'rise and fall of a nation'.

"I think that Japanese must know about customs, culture, products and government of other nations to strengthen the friendly relations.

"I am 18 years old, and a school boy. I am interested in animals, plants and archeology. I am especially interested in fossils and stone implements.

ATLANTAN KILLED AS STEERING GEAR BREAKS ON HILL

Floyd M. Power, Grocery Clerk, Dies in Crash Near Jackson.

His car leaving the road as the steering gear broke, Floyd M. Power, 29-year-old Atlanta grocery clerk, was killed yesterday afternoon near Jackson.

He was driving down a steep hill when the accident occurred. The car left the road and turned over several times. Power was pinned under the wreckage.

His neck was broken and death must have been almost instantaneous, Jackson physicians said. The wreck happened about three miles north of Jackson on United States Highway No. 42. Power was driving toward Macon from Atlanta.

No eyewitnesses to the wreck could be found, but later arrivals said the victim was dead when they arrived. He was the only occupant of the car.

The automobile was almost totally demolished.

Identification was made by a letter found on the dead man's person, and Mrs. Effie Powers, the victim's wife, was immediately notified.

Surviving in addition to his wife are his mother, Mrs. Cora M. Power; two sisters, Mrs. Frank Blackburn and Mrs. Hazel Burdette, and one brother, Alton Power.

The body was brought to Atlanta last night for funeral services and burial. Arrangements will be announced by Awtry & Lowndes.

RECORDERS ASKED TO TAIL 'BUG' MEN

Hornsby to investigate the two detectives, J. H. King and John Crankshaw, who chased an alleged lottery car Wednesday shortly before it wrecked at Parkway drive and Angier avenue. Hornsby replied that King and Crankshaw were not chasing the car when the accident occurred, and McKibben declared "no one has been injured by a city police car" while chasing suspected automobiles.

Bridges declared Crankshaw and King were pursuing another automobile Tuesday when it overturned on Pryor road.

"Reckless speeding after misdemeanor suspects has got to stop," Bridges said.

"Catch the Big Shots." Discussing the lottery business, Hartsfield remarked that the first job in wiping out the "bug" game is to catch the big shots and the crooked lawyers.

"The big shots congregate at bondsmen's offices right here at the police station every morning about 11 o'clock," Bridges asserted. "The trouble is pinning something on them," answered McKibben.

Members of the police committee split on the subject of revocation of several beer and wine permits last night. After Councilman Cecil W. Hester recommended that Morris Israel be allowed a permit to operate a Teeny Weeny stand at 987 Piedmont avenue, Detective Superintendent McKibben recommended the beer and wine permits for Teeny Weeny stands at Courtland and Forrest avenues, and at Ponce de Leon avenue and Boulevard be revoked because robberies had taken place in each.

Record Is Cited.

Hartsfield cited the unfavorable record of the place on Forrest avenue, and he and Councilman John T. Marler voted to revoke the permits. Hester voted "no" on both places, while Bridges sided with Mayor Hartsfield and Marler in revoking the Forrest avenue place, but joined Hester in defeating the recommendation to revoke the permit for the Ponce de Leon avenue and Boulevard stand. The committee had previously approved the permit at 987 Piedmont, provided it was recommended later by the permit investigator.

Hartsfield asserted "if the police committee doesn't revoke permits, I will veto them when they come through council and to pass them council will have to take the whole responsibility."

When Bridges said "there are 75 places in my ward worse than the Teeny Weeny place," he named Ralph Burnside at 359 Fair street as an example. The committee promptly revoked Burnside's permit.

Melton Trial Delayed.

Trial or reinstatement of former Patrolman J. S. Melton was delayed two weeks while Assistant City Attorney Bond Almand investigates two dormant indictments against the ex-policeman. Melton was convicted of possessing a stolen car, but was under two additional indictments regarding motor numbers of the machine.

The committee approved sending Raymond W. Torres, engineer of the city planning commission, to the Harvard University traffic school. It referred to the finance committee the request of 16 plain clothes policemen to be put on regular detective pay. It recommended again that the mayor's name be taken off copies of charges, and passed a resolution asking the health department to give ages and description of food handlers on health certificates.

Will Baker Free 'Boss'?

FORREST TURNER.

VINCENT T. BAKER FLEES TROUP GANG

the abandonment of the truck and the transfer to Miss Parsons' auto. A picked squad of Atlanta detectives were issued machine guns and extra ammunition last night after word of the escape was received. Cars were stationed on all main arteries leading into Atlanta to watch for the fugitives.

Release Attempts Feared.

With Baker free, police fear an attempt will be made to release Turner from the Troup gang and R. L. Turner, gang lieutenant No. 2, from the DeKalb gang.

Escaping with Baker were William Ross, 25, of Atlanta, serving 4 years for robbery, and Delma McKeehan, 18, serving one to three years for auto theft from Fulton county. Guard T. G. Haynes said last night.

Floyd Robinson, only guard at the camp when the break was made, was shot in the knee and leg when he entered the arsenal to investigate. He found the trio loading the truck with ammunition and guns. They shot him when he attempted to stop them. Robinson was unarmed. He was reported in fair condition at a LaGrange hospital last night.

Two Convicts Remain.

When the break was made, only two other convicts were in the camp. They made no effort to join the trio.

Mrs. L. L. Bowles, wife of the warden, who first reported the escape to Atlanta officers, said the convicts first obtained shotguns in "some manner," then broke in the camp storehouse, stole all the ammunition and escaped in the truck. When they left the camp, they were heavily armed with shotguns, pistols and at least one rifle, Mrs. Bowles said.

Warden Bowles organized posses immediately upon his arrival at the convict camp with Turner. The gang leader had no comment to make about the escape of his lieutenant.

Second Troup Escape.

Yesterday's escape was the second Baker has made from the Troup chain gang, known throughout the state as the "toughest" in Georgia. Here the "hardened" criminals are taken for safe-keeping.

Turner and Baker committed their first law violation together—they stole an automobile. For this offense, their first, they were given a five-year gang sentence. They thought it too much for a first offense.

Throughout their subsequent crime career, they have maintained this sentence was the cause of all their breaks and law violations. They thought the first-offender sentence unjust.

Their only semblance of a break came several weeks ago when Baker was reported to have "kidnaped" his sister, Mrs. LeRoy Manders, 17-year-old bride of a month. This break was apparently healed when it was learned she had gone with Baker voluntarily.

Baker has three times escaped the chain gangs and on his last "leave of absence," and while with

Having Snow to Pole! Four Report Heat Wave

MOSCOW, July 30.—(AP)—It was so warm at the North Pole that the snow melted around the camp of four Soviet weather observers, they reported today.

They had to haul more snow from afar to get drinkable water. The prolonged "warm spell"—just above freezing—even endangered their camp, as the ice began to melt out from under it.

Mrs. Manders, he held up a store in Floyd county for which he recently was given a 20-year sentence, detectives say. This would bring his total sentence to 25 years.

The break came while a joint legislative committee was investigating conditions on chain gangs. Two men were shot—one fatally—this week at the Wilkes county camp in another break. Tom Wolford, song-singing long term under state and federal sentences, led four negroes Monday in a break from the Elbert county camp. They are still at large. Wolford had only recently been captured in New York and returned to Elbert county.

Roy Glover, 18, a convict, was shot and killed last week in an attempt to escape the Wheeler county camp. Recently another convict died in a camp after being confined in a "disciplinary move."

Commissioner Harry R. Harp, of Fayette county, was spokesman for the group.

"The people of Clayton, Fayette, Coweta and Meriwether counties are deeply grateful to the highway board for giving us this new road, the first some of the points along the route have ever had," Commissioner Harp said. "And we are made doubly happy by the fact that it will be a lasting memorial to one of the greatest Georgians who ever lived, Clark Howell."

Clark Howell Highway Delegation Thanks Road Board for Designation

Group From Clayton, Fayette, Coweta and Meriwether Counties in Route of New Connecting Link to Warm Springs Hears Work Will Start Soon.

A delegation of citizens from Clayton, Fayette, Coweta and Meriwether counties called on the State Highway Board yesterday to thank members for naming new Route 85 the Clark Howell Memorial highway.

The new highway will be constructed through the four counties, connecting Atlanta and Warm Springs. It will connect with the Warm Springs-Columbus highway, providing a new through route to that city as well as a traffic outlet to southwest Georgia and to points west of Columbus.

Commissioner Spokesman.

Commissioner Harry R. Harp, of Fayette county, was spokesman for the group.

"The people of Clayton, Fayette, Coweta and Meriwether counties are deeply grateful to the highway board for giving us this new road, the first some of the points along the route have ever had," Commissioner Harp said. "And we are made doubly happy by the fact that it will be a lasting memorial to one of the greatest Georgians who ever lived, Clark Howell."

"Mr. Howell ever was a supporter of good roads. His great newspaper fought for good roads long before the state ever had a highway program. He made a tour all over Georgia more than a quarter of a century ago waking up people to the fact that any state to go forward must have good roads."

Fitting Memorial.

Mr. Harp said the people of his section would have revered Clark Howell without the road being named for him, but he added that because of Mr. Howell's friendship for President Roosevelt and his love for Warm Springs the memorial was all the more fitting.

The other members of the delegation echoed his sentiments.

Chairman W. L. Miller told the delegation that the highway board hoped to start work on the road soon.

"The surveys are well under way and we expect to go forward with the road as soon as possible," the board chairman said.

UNDERWOOD ORDERS ACQUITTAL OF FIVE

Fifteenth Week of Kopald-Quinn Trial Is Brought to Close.

With the directed acquittal of five defendants in the Kopald-Quinn mail fraud cases in United States district court, the fifteenth week of the hearing came to a close yesterday.

Declaring government evidence insufficient, Judge Marvin E. Underwood instructed the jury to return verdicts of not guilty for M. Frank McCormick, of Minneapolis, and Sam Sherman, Max Oxman, M. L. Chivens and Henry Kopald, all of Chicago.

Yesterday's acquittals left only 11 of the original 24 brokers indicted for the alleged swindle still to be judged.

Judge Underwood dismissed the jury until Tuesday, when decisions on the motions for directed verdicts in the cases of Meyer Wolfson, Ben Waller and Harry Newberger will be made.

Kirby Beats Miley, 4-3; Plays Mrs. Jameson for Title Today

A look back at the golfing records will show that a few of the golfing girls have defeated Miss Dorothy Kirby, once. But try to find those who have administered two defeats.

Miss Marion Miley—last winter eliminated the Atlanta girl from the Forest Hills tournament at Augusta. Yesterday at Asheville, Dorothy Kirby came through with a rather easy 4-and-3 victory over the Kentucky girl.

She lacked a little confidence. She got it in those long hot days when the southern was in progress at East Lake. Her victory in the finals to win her first important championship was one of the finest fights ever made in competitive sport. The victory over the Lexington girl, who has been a feature performer for some years, should give some added confidence.

DOROTHY KIRBY.

There is no telling about golf. But at 17 years of age, Dorothy Kirby apparently has more shots than any of the feminine golfers. She lacks only the maturity in temperament and game which time can give.

Whether she wins today or not, the wisdom of Howard Beckett's course in refusing to have the girl campaign in the winter tournaments in Florida is again substantiated. Already she has defeated most of those who have been making headlines in the long string of winter tournaments.

MR. BECKETT GROWLS.

Howard Beckett, the Capital City Club professional, was growling on the telephone yesterday as he called for news about his pupil in the Asheville tournament.

"Have you seen our golf course?"
"What about it?"
"You fellows were writing us a lot of nice comment about putting in our sprinkler system."
"And what?"
"And not a word about what has happened since the sprinklers were in place."

Which is a true bill indictment. The Capital City Club, pioneering with a sprinkler system which gives each square foot of fairway and green a nocturnal bath, is as lush as a desert oasis. The grass is thick in the fairway. At this time of the season, in past years, the fairways needed no cutting. This summer they are being mowed twice a week.

Golfers in the south know that about the time August comes along, an iron played from most fairways will knock up a small cloud of dust. But, out where Grandpa Beckett bathes his fairways, they look like a tropical garden. The iron clubs which bite into the turf bring up rich, green grass and soft loam. No dust blows up.

John Westmoreland and his board of directors took a chance. They sold the club members. Now the verdict is three rousing cheers for the board and the sprinkler system.

Other Atlanta clubs will install sprinklers in the near future. In fact, one already is making plans. The success at the Capital City Club means other clubs over this section of the southland will install the showers for fairways and greens.

THE FRIDAY VICTORY.

The Friday victory really was an important one. Miss Miley was a member of the Curtis cup team and the tenth ranking player in America.

Dorothy Kirby needed only par on the last three holes to finish with a 73. She had a 74 to win the medal in the qualifying round. Beginning with the Southern in Atlanta, no woman in tournament golf has played with more consistency than the Capital City member.

Mrs. Dave Gaut, president of the Southern Golf Association, has succeeded in bringing the National tournament to the south for the first time in the tournament's history. While no one expects Dorothy Kirby to win, she will have the added experience of playing in the National on a Southern course. The tournament is to be held in Memphis in October.

THE CUP RACES.

The cup races—with yachts costing a half million or so each, will begin today.

Mr. Henry McLemore, of the United Press, has written a very able and entertaining article on the yacht races which is most heartily commended to one and all. It is in the SEP which came out last Tuesday. Mr. McLemore, who has covered the races, thinks they are the worst spectator sport in the world and proves his point.

The best story is the one introducing Mr. McLemore in one of the editorial columns. One of the ladies of one of the old families in Newport, being a bit shy of funds, rented out some rooms to some of the scribes covering the yacht races. The newspaper men were so exhausted each day they were forced to resort to stimulants. When the cup races were done the old lady said, "Dear, dear, I did so hope Mr. Sopwith would win. I do not think I could endure another defense."

IF YOU KNEW SUSY.

At Schacht, who is to come to our town next week to do some clowning, once was teamed with Nick Altrock at Washington as a comedy team. They did serious coaching but their clown stunts won them the most fame. They split up over a matter of temperament.

Perhaps the best story of their team days concerns the time they were hired to be part of a troupe which was traveling with Suzanne Lenglen, when that tennis player had become a professional and was touring under the banner of C. C. Pyle.

It is reported that one night Altrock and Schacht drank a few beers and, feeling in voice, halted outside the Pullman car where Mlle. Lenglen was sleeping and sang:

"If You Knew Susy Like I Know Susy..."

The next day they were no longer traveling with the troupe. Mlle. Lenglen made it all tennis.

DANIEL FIRES 78 IN HER 1ST PLAY AT BLACK ROCK

Rome Girl, Runner-Up in State Meet, Plays in Foursome.

Martha Daniel, of Rome, who was runner-up in the women's state tournament in 1936, played the Black Rock course for the first time Friday and shot a 78. She played in a foursome which included Phil Kibler, G. H. A. Thomas and Kid Brown.

Miss Daniel said she was delighted with the course, and the greens, particularly. She is preparing for the women's state golf tournament which will be held in Rome in October.

Sappenfield Has 69 at Black Rock.

Colan Sappenfield shot his best round of golf Friday when he carded a 69 over the Black Rock course, which has a par of 72. Sappenfield played with Paul Mullins, who had a 72, and D. T. Cannon, who had a 73.

TWO-YEAR OLDS TO RUN TODAY

CHICAGO, July 30.—(AP)—Horsemen will find two big pots of gold at the end of Arlington Park's "golden rainbow" tomorrow.

The $50,000 Arlington Futurity and the $25,000 Arlington Handicap will feature the closing day of the huge racing plant's 30-day meeting, and the two stakes are expected to draw upwards of 40,000 spectators.

An even dozen two-year-olds—the best from the east and west—are expected to fight it out in the Futurity over six furlongs. A week ago the race seemed at the mercy of three colts representing Mrs. Ethel V. Mars Milky Way Farm stable—Sky Larking, Tiger and C. Note. But in the final drills, the last of which was run yesterday, several horses served notice they will try to make the event a wide-open affair.

Warren Wright's Bull Lea has been particularly impressive. For the east, Perpetuate is expected to make a strong bid. In addition Hal Price Headley's two representatives, Menow and Bourbon King, have shown lightning speed, while Mrs. John March uncovered a spectacular colt in Kings Blue during the week.

The rest of the field may be made up of Mrs. W. H. Furst's Pape Son, Teddy's Comet and Lassiter, owned by Emerson Woodward, and H. M. Woolf's Joe Schenck.

Saturday's program will end a meeting in which more than $400,000 was distributed in purses. Chicago's long turf season continues at Lincoln Fields, which opens a 30-day meeting Monday.

Favorites Fail at Saratoga.

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP)—Saratoga, known to the turf as the "graveyard" of favorites, ran true to form today when Drawbridge, 1-to-3 choice from the Wheatley stable, finished out of the money as Elmer Dale Shaffer's Evening Tide won the seven furlongs of the test stakes for three-year-old fillies.

Running just before a heavy rain soaked the track, Evening Tide was clocked in the comparatively slow time of 1:26, yet it was fast enough to earn the purse of $3,025 in a photo finish with the State stable's That One, a 30-to-1 shot. The Bomar stable's Sweet Desire trailed by another length and a half while beating Drawbridge by four lengths.

Unbeaten Chief Favored Today.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 30.—(AP)—The outstanding eastern candidate for two-year-old turf honors and one of the nation's western hopefuls, tangled with seven other juveniles in the 35th running of the $7,500 United States hotel stakes tomorrow.

The eastern colt is C. V. Whitely's The Chief, unbeaten son of Pennant. The western hopeful is Mountain Ridge, a son of Royal Mirel which cost Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago, $14,000 as a yearling. But for the fact that Saratoga is known as "graveyard" for favorites, the others would be given little consideration.

Bitsy Grant Longs To See Peachtree

LONDON, July 30.—(AP)—The Davis Cup went west today.

The tall, red-haired boy who won it, Donald Budge, carried it aboard the train at Waterloo station and started it back to its original home in the United States.

A great crowd jammed the platform and Budge and his doubles partner, Gene Mako, held up the cup for the folks to see until they couldn't hold it up any longer.

Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, lost in the crowd, impatiently wished the train to be on its way bearing him back to his native Georgia.

"We've certainly been treated royally," he exclaimed, "but, boy, I'd certainly like to see Peachtree street, Atlanta, again."

Budge promised everybody he and Mako would be back next year to defend their hard-won titles on Wimbledon's famed center court.

Popular Performers in Asheville Invitation Golf Tournament

COOPER LEADS ST. PAUL OPEN

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 30.—(UP)—Light horse Harry Cooper, Chicago's British-born golfing wizard, swept into the lead in his favorite tournament today at the end of the first round in the $5,000 St. Paul open.

Cooper, who has scored three victories in St. Paul's rich, 72-hole medal play tournament, blazed over Keller course with a 33-35—68, four under par. He finished one stroke ahead of Pat Sawyer, young Minneapolis professional, and two strokes ahead of the veteran Chicago amateur, Johnny Dawson.

Ten others, including United States Open Champion Ralph Guldahl, were clustered in fourth place with 71's.

Cooper's putter saved him all the way around today. He snatched a birdie on the first hole, parred the second and took an eagle three on the 532-yard third hole.

He picked up another birdie on the fifth, then went over on the ninth with the only error his putter made.

On the second nine, Cooper pulled out five pars with remarkable work on the greens and birdied two other par five holes with a single putt on each green. He ran down putts from 30, 15 and 12 feet on his second nine.

Sawyer also was deadly with his short game and twice threatened to take the lead away from Cooper. Playing with Sam Snead, popular tournament star from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Sawyer made the field of 180 sit up and take notice with his 35 on the first nine and a brilliant 34 coming home. Snead, however, fell into serious trouble going out in 38 but rallied on the second nine with a 34.

Dutch Harrison, of Stuttgart, Ark., had the best nine-hole card of opening day with a 32 on the first nine. Coming in, he found the rough three times and finally finished with a 39, good for a fourth-place tie.

Leading scores today included: Harry Cooper, Chicago, 33-35—68; Pat Sawyer, Minneapolis, 35-34—69; A. Johnny Dawson, Chicago, 35-33—68; Dutch Harrison, Stuttgart, Ark., 32-39—71; Bill Zieski, Minneapolis, 36-35—71; Johnny Revolta, Chicago, 36-35—71; a-Dick Price, Wichita, 36-35—71; Johnny Bulla, Chicago, 35-36—71; Jimmy Hines, Garden City, N. Y., 33-38—71.

JUNIOR TOURNEY.

DELAWARE, Wis., July 30.—(AP)—Seymour Greenberg, of Chicago, and two California youths, Myron McNamara, of Los Angeles, and Frank Kovacs, of Berkeley, won their quarter-final round junior matches today in the western junior and boys' tennis tournament.

Dorothy Plays 'Champ' Beats Marion Miley, 4 and 3, To Gain Biltmore Invitation Finals; Putting Improves.

By DOROTHY KIRBY.

BILTMORE FOREST COUNTRY CLUB, July 30.—Well, I made it to the finals and play the defending champion, Mrs. Jameson, tomorrow. She won from Kathryn Hemphill, today, 3 and 2, while I beat Marion Miley, 4 and 3.

Marion and I both made 37's going out. I happened to be sinking my putts for a change and that helped considerably. The greens were much slower today than they have been and this meant you could hit the putts and not have to just tap them.

I think you can usually tell before you start about how you are going to play. Some days you just have the feel and can't miss and the other days it looks hopeless, and today I had the feel and it seemed as though I couldn't miss.

HIGH HOPES.

I hope this continues through the match tomorrow, for I will need it.

I have played Mrs. Jameson before and was beaten. She is tough to beat. She and Kathryn had a good match this morning. It was close all the way. They have played each other about nine times and Kathryn has won six out of nine times and the three times she was beaten by Jane was on this course—and also on the same hole, which is the sixteenth. It looks as though the sixteenth is a jinx for Kathryn.

BEAUTIFUL MEDAL.

I saw the medal I will get for being medalist and it is certainly a beauty. It's a small gold one.

They have a beautiful swimming pool here at the club, and after the matches today Marion and Kathryn took a dip.

It was certainly a temptation to me, but I knew if I did any swimming I would hook everything I hit tomorrow, so I sat on the sidelines and watched.

NEW PRICES SET FOR DIXIE SERIES

NEW ORLEANS, July 30.—(AP)

John D. Martin, president of the Southern association, and J. Alvin Gardener, president of the Texas league, met here today and adopted a scale of reduced prices for the annual Dixie series between the winning teams of the two leagues.

Martin said he and Gardener arrived today and planned to stay over until tomorrow. The reduction, he said, applied principally to bleacher seats.

The price scale, to apply in both the Texas and Southern league cities, follows:

Bleacher seats, 68 cents, plus 7 cents tax; total 75 cents; grandstand seats, $1, plus 10 cents tax, total $1.10; reserved grandstand seats, $1.59, plus 16 cents tax, total $1.75; box seats, $1.81, plus 19 cents tax, total $2; grandstand seats for children, 45 cents, plus 5 cents tax, total 50 cents; bleacher seats for children, 25 cents, no tax.

Martin said bleacher seats last year cost $1.

The two presidents said the series, as usual, would be a seven-game one with the players sharing in the receipts of the first four games.

Chickasaws Return Player to Angels

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 30.—(AP)

The Memphis Baseball Club announced today it had returned Bill McWilliams, third baseman, to the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league.

The Los Angeles club immediately transferred him to Dallas, of the Texas league, club officials said.

McWilliams broke in with the Chicks June 22 with a flurry of doubles and singles that sent his batting average well above the .300 mark. His percentage subsequently dwindled to .270 and his fielding average fell to .896.

Manager Billy Southworth considered sending Bennie McCoy, new outfielder from Toledo, to third and putting Keith Frazier back in the outfield.

Senators Purchase Southpaw Hurler

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)

The Washington Senators today announced the purchase of Joe Anderson, a southpaw hurler, from Sioux Falls, S. D. He will report here in September.

Anderson, 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighing 210 pounds, has won 14 games and lost three this year.

DOROTHY CARDS SUB-PAR ROUND TO BEAT MARION

Southern Champion Ends Match With Two Straight Birdies.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 30.—Dorothy Kirby, medalist and southern champion, of Atlanta, and the defending champion, Mrs. Jane Cothran Jameson, of Greenville, S. C., played consistently from tee to cup today and won their way into the final round of the 15th annual women's invitation tournament at the Biltmore Forest Country Club.

The young Georgia star advanced with a 4-and-3 victory over Marion Miley, of Louisville, Ky., while Mrs. Jameson trounced Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., 3 and 2.

In both matches the ultimate winners settled down after shaky starts to give par a battle and slowly but surely take leads that were threatened but never overcome.

FIRST BIRDIE.

Miss Kirby started off with a birdie three win on the first hole by sinking a six-foot putt. On the fourth she found trouble and Miss Miley squared the match with a four. The Atlantan then won the sixth and eighth and made the turn two up. By giving her an estimated seven on the fourth hole her score for the first nine was 37, one under par.

The first two holes on the second nine were halved and then the southern titleholder canned a 15-footer on the 12th to go three up. She missed a four-foot putt on the 13th and had to be satisfied with a half in fives, but knocked her second dead to the pin on the 14th for a birdie three and a four-hole advantage. They halved the 15th in threes to end the contest.

Miss Kirby had par in for 73, and Miss Miley had a par 76 in sight.

JAMESON CONSISTENT.

Mrs. Jameson, in scoring a 3-2 victory over Miss Hemphill, found trouble on only three of the 16 holes played. On the second, hole her drive landed in the ditch; on the 11th her second was trapped and her third over the green; and on the 16th her drive was trapped and she took two to get on.

Miss Hemphill three-putted two greens, but lost only one, and wilderness, either from the tee or on her second shot, proved costly on at least three occasions.

Miss Kirby and Mrs. Jameson will tee off at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to decide the championship over the 18-hole distance.

Alice Marble Is Winner, 6-3, 5-7, 8-6

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 30.—(AP)—Miss Alice Marble, of San Francisco, won a second leg on the Seabright bowl today by defeating Jadwiga Jedzejowska, Polish champion, in the women's finals of the fiftieth annual invitation tennis tournament of the Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club. The scores were 6-3, 5-7, 8-6.

It was the first triumph for Miss Marble, United States national champion, over the stocky Polish star in four meetings.

The blond Californian, who in 1936 turned back Carolin Babcock, of Los Angeles, threw away ten match points today before she finally achieved victory over Miss Jedzejowska.

In the mixed doubles, Bobby Riggs, of Los Angeles, who is scheduled to meet Wilmer L. Allison, of Austin, Texas, in tomorrow's singles final, paired with Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, of France, to defeat G. H. Hunt, of Washington, D. C., and Hope Knowles, of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-4.

Miss Jedzejowska and Jiro Yamagishi, the Japanese star, gained the other mixed doubles bracket in the finals by toppling John McDiarmid, of Chicago, and Gracyn Wheeler, of Santa Monica, Cal., 6-4, 6-4.

Black Crackers Play Here With Benning

The Atlanta Black Crackers, in the midst of a nine-game winning streak which has carried them past Cincinnati, Chicago, Jacksonville and the Army team from Fort Benning, meet the soldier team again here today and Sunday at Ponce de Leon park.

The last meeting of the two teams saw the Atlanta outfit win by scores of 4-2 and 2-0.

Manager Sampson's team is in shape, with "Lefty" Nelson and "Big Jim" Reese ready to take the slab assignments. The 24th infantry team, with Hampton, Trammell, Armistead and others, offers a threat to the Atlanta team. Saturday's game starts at 4 p. m., while the Sunday double-header will get underway at 2 p. m. Special sections are reserved for white fans.

LEGRANT SCOTT HITS 2 HOMERS AT BIRMINGHAM

Rickwood Jinx Still Haunts Atlanta; Leonard Relieves Beckman.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 30.—Legrant Scott poled two home runs and singled in the eighth to start a winning rally that netted three runs and the Barons took the opener of the series from the Crackers tonight, 6-5. Thus, the Crackers jinx at Rickwood, which has seen them win only one game in eight here this season, remained unbroken. Atlanta won one out of eleven at Rickwood last season.

Bill Beckman wilted in the eighth when the Barons won the ball game and was removed in favor of Emil Leonard, with Beckman getting credit for the loss. Roy Joiner, Barons starter, also failed to last, being replaced by Lefty George in the ninth, but Joiner was winning pitcher.

Marshall Mauldin, with four for four, paced the Atlanta attack.

CRACKERS TAKE LEAD. Atlanta came up with two runs and Birmingham one in the second. Joiner loaded the bases in allowing Galvin and Hill to single and walking Chatham. He looked home free when Beckman hit into a double play, Seghi to Sueme to Clancy, but Marshall Mauldin shot a single into left, scoring Galvin and Chatham.

Legrant Scott hit a home run into the corner of the colored grandstand for the first hit off Beckman. Seghi got the second hit with two away.

The Crackers increased their lead to two runs in the third. Luby tripled to deep left. Mailbo filed to Luce and Luby scored before Luce could whip the ball to the plate.

NO SCORES. Joiner retired the Crackers for the first time in the fourth. Galvin and Hill fouled out to Sueme and Buster Chatham struck out. Mauldin was hit by a pitched ball and was put to rest in a twin killing when Luby lined to Joiner who tossed the ball to first in the fifth. It served the Crackers justly as Beckman had taken a hit away from Luce when a line drive caught in the webbing of his glove in the fourth.

Scott and Luce were roundly applauded as they came to the dugout at the end of the first half of the sixth. Scott made a great catch of Mailbo's liner and Luce went back in the country in right-center and hauled in Rose's labeled triple.

THAT SCOTT MAN. LeGrant Scott put the Barons back in the ball game in their half of the sixth when he hit his second home run off Beckman into the colored bleachers. Sueme was aboard, having opened the inning with a single over the key-stone bag.

Atlanta came back in the seventh to take a one-run lead. Hill lucked a hit back of second. Chatham bunted but was called out for interference when he ran into Joiner. Hill was sent back to first. Beckman sacrificed and Joiner failed to get Hill going into second. Mauldin whanged a single to right, scoring Hill. Great catches by Scott and Howell got Joiner out of the hole.

Clowning Al Schacht Guest of Earl Mann

Stunt Performer Aims at G-Man Job; Apears Here Week After Next.

By JACK TROY.

Al Schacht, whose clowning stunts have entertained millions of baseball fans in the past decade and a half, was a luncheon guest of President Earl Mann, of the Crackers, yesterday.

Schacht, who will entertain fans at Macon Sunday, is to bring his one-man show here next month, either the 10th or 13th.

"Greatest ambition of my life," said Schacht, "is to become a G-man. You see, I was traveling from Tulsa to Oklahoma City by automobile when these two tough board, one on each side, and I was a case of money or your life, and I was thinking strictly in terms of long life and happiness when they made me pull up on this lonely road."

"I thought maybe I could appeal to them, that one or perhaps both were baseball fans or maybe had played the game. So I told them who I was."

"One of them said he was a slightly interested in the game, all right, but added, 'Al, it won't do you a bit of good. You can get more money and we haven't eaten in two days. Fork it over.'"

"Well, I only had $80 with me and I was glad to let them have it. On second thought, I remembered I had the long jump still ahead and no money. So I asked them if they could give me back a grub stake. They thought it over and gave me $5."

DIDN'T RECOGNIZE HIM. "But the worst thing about it was that the story got out, and some of my writing friends read it didn't mind so much. I was the money but that I was built up because those bandits didn't recognize my name!"

Schacht, who is an honorary member of the international police chiefs—G-man Edgar Hoover, conferred that honor upon him—was trying to enlist aid yesterday in his plan to go back to Texas and capture the two bandits who stole his $80 bucks.

Schacht is crazy about fried chicken, detective stories and court trials. "I was one of the worst pitchers who ever toed a mound," he said, "and I guess I'll wind up as a detective of the same class. I didn't miss many sessions of the Hauptmann trial. Court trials fascinate me."

Schacht told another story on Bill Guthrie, who used to umpire in the Southern league.

"Red Ormsby was umpiring behind the plate in Washington on this day and Guthrie was at third, where I was coaching. Well, Ormsby wasn't seeing 'em so well and they threw bottles in Washington when that sort of thing persists."

"Guthrie was saying, 'Poor Red, that fellow has a dozen children and is a great chap, to boot. Somebody ought to help the poor umpires.'"

"The bottle throwing continued and then a foul tip went slicing into the stands and hit a spectator full in the chest, knocking him out. A bottle had just come from that section."

"Ah," said Guthrie, "see—God takes care of conscientious umpires!"

500 PER DAY. Schacht averages traveling more than 500 miles per day. He does most of his traveling by car. He's wearing out his second one of the season right now.

He gave President Earl Mann a great ride and a class run on the trip from Columbus, Ohio. He insists on riding with the top down.

Schacht, whose program of stunts is largely pantomime, will entertain the fans with a great program here within a couple of weeks. The date is not yet set. President Mann would like to have him for Friday night, August 13, but will take him on Tuesday night, August 10, if Schacht's schedule permits.

Schacht has entertained fans at 14 of the past 16 World Series. He recently put on a great show at the all-star game in Columbus.

NO WATCH—COMPASS. Schacht's closing story was about the time he was playing golf with a young woman and kept looking at his watch. It was a come on, of course, and finally the young lady rose to the bait.

"Why," she asked, "do you keep looking at your watch?"

Schacht, who had spent most of his time exploring the rough and had been in so many lakes he felt seasick, responded, "Lady, that's no watch; that's a compass."

BECK & GREGG LEAGUE

Oakland City, last-hitter, led the Beck & Gregg league, will meet a strong team in the N. C. & St. L. line at Inman Yards this afternoon. Oakland City is out in front with three straight wins, while N. C. & St. L. has won two and lost two.

Garrett Wine, who has lost but one game this fall, will meet the undefeated Atlanta Line nine at Piedmont park. Atlanta Line has only played two games this half and Garrett has played four.

SCHEDULE. Garrett Wine vs. Atlanta Line, at Piedmont park, Monday, Aug. 2.

Maynard Methodist vs. Southern Wax, at Oakland City, Monday, Aug. 2.

Oakland City vs. N. C. & St. L., at Inman Yards, Monday, Bradford.

SPORTS SATURDAY LEAGUE. Merita Bakeries and Dixieland will play the only game scheduled in the Atlanta Commercial league this afternoon when they meet at Glenn field at 3:30 o'clock in a fiery battle.

Dixieland is undefeated this season and has one of the best teams in its baseball history. Smith, Smithwick, ace pitcher for Merita, will probably take Leonard Mayo, of Dixieland, on the mound. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock.

SCHEDULE. Merita Bakeries vs. Dixieland, at Glenn field, Bakers, Street and Van Houten.

WICKER HURLS YANKS TO WIN OVER BROWNS

Gehrig Gets 20th Homer; Mike Cochrane Back in Uniform.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

For the first time in a week the Yankees received effective pitching yesterday and they combined it with their customary clouting to trample the St. Louis Browns, 8 to 2, in the current series opener.

Young Camp "Wicker," making his second start since he was brought up from the Yanks' farm at Newark, stopped the slugging Browns with seven hits, and blanked them until the sixth as he chalked up his second straight win.

His chief assistants in the victory were Lou Gehrig, who clouted his 20th homer with a mate aboard in the first inning; Frank Crosetti, who collected four hits for the day, including one double, and big Bill Dickey, who drove in two runs with a pair of singles.

Altogether, the Yanks collected a dozen hits off Elton Hoggsett, who lasted only three innings, and Bill Strickland, Hoggsett was the loser.

The world champions sewed up the game in the first inning with three runs, two of them on Gehrig's homer and the third, on a walk and an error.

Manager Mickey Cochrane was in uniform for the first time since his skull was fractured by a pitched ball May 25, but the Detroit Tigers lost a 5-5 ten-inning game to the Red Sox today, narrowing their third place lead to only two games over Boston. It was the Sox' third straight victory and gave them the series opener.

Relief Pitcher Jack Wilson's double to right center on the first pitch off George Coffman with two out, scored Roger Cramer with the winning run, after the latter had struck out, advanced to second on an infield out.

Lefty Grove, perennial Detroit nemesis, lasted only seven innings, being replaced by Rube Walberg.

Jimmy Deshong limited the Indians to six hits and rung up his eleventh victory of the year as Washington beat Cleveland, 13 to 2.

CHICAGO GAINS IN 5-3 VICTORY OVER NEW YORK

Charles E. Martin Resigns—Stegeman To Promote Intra-Mural Sports.

Reorganization of the University of Georgia's athletic association is being effected by some changes in duties and personnel, it was learned yesterday from members of the athletic board of the university.

Changes already made, it was learned, were: Professor W. O. Payne will be in full charge of all athletics at the university with the title of faculty chairman of athletics, a title he has held for three years.

H. J. Stegeman, because of his excessive duties as instructor and dean of men, will be relieved of his duties as director of athletics, the duties being taken over by Professor Payne. Coach Stegeman will, as dean of men, be director of intra-mural athletics, which feature of athletic activity he is expected to make one of the most popular at the university. F. H. (Jack) Frost, present director of intra-murals, will assist Mr. Stegeman.

SUCCEEDED BY BOLTON. Charles E. Martin, for some years treasurer of the athletic association, has resigned to enter business. His duties will be absorbed by J. D. Bolton, who is treasurer of the university.

Another change or so are in prospect. The board felt, it was said, the changes would remove some duplications of effort and would make for a more efficient organization.

ADMIRABLY FITTED. H. J. Stegeman, who was serving as dean of men, director of athletics, professor of physical education, track coach, scout and doing a few other odd jobs, will now be permitted to give more of his time to the students, a task for which he is admirably fitted. He and Frost should make the intra-mural system one which will include literally all students in some form of exercise and recreation.

Charles E. Martin, who resigned effective September 1, will be missed. He had been a member of the staff for a number of years.

'GONE WITH WIND' SUIT IS DISMISSED

and touched off a new vogue for things southern:

"Naturally, I am very happy. Although the suit has naturally been quite annoying, I never really worried and was confident all the way through."

Miss Mitchell had never seen or heard of "The Authentic History of the Ku Klux Klan, 1865-1877," compiled by Miss Davis until the suit was brought last spring. She said:

"I haven't read it all yet. Although I've dipped into parts of it, I never could find one in an Atlanta book store. Finally I picked up a second-hand copy in New York. I never heard of the book until Miss Davis brought her suit, several months after 'Gone With the Wind' was printed."

In his ruling, dismissing the Davis suit, Judge Goddard said the Ku Klux Klan history "contains no plot or story, 'Gone With the Wind' is in part historical and a fictional story laid in and about Atlanta, Ga." The judge in his ruling also said:

"Both writers are southern women steeped in southern tradition, writing about the south and it is natural that there should be some resemblance in their language. But I think that the style of Miss Mitchell is not that of Miss Davis and the expressions used by Miss Mitchell and the descriptions of events and conditions in 'Gone With the Wind' are her own and that she had not appropriated the literary labor of Miss Davis."

Judge Goddard, who ruled on motions of dismissal brought by the Macmillan Company, had been asked to read both books to compare the styles and language. His decision was on a motion filed last Tuesday by the defense.

Historical events, including those which relate to the Ku Klux Klan, are in themselves within the public domain, no one being entitled to the exclusive right to use them in literature.

opinion can easily detect the truth.

"Not Our Responsibility." "If non-intervention breaks down it will be Germany's and Italy's responsibility, not ours, for the real danger comes not from the Soviet, who opposes the granting of belligerent rights, but from Germany and Italy who strenuously oppose the withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain."

The Soviet stand, virtually wrecking British efforts to salvage non-intervention collaboration, was made in reply to a British proposal that belligerent rights be granted to both the insurgents and Loyalists, dependent upon the withdrawal of all foreign volunteers from Spain.

The subcommittee adjourned at 7:15 p. m., in what seemed a hopeless deadlock.

GERMANY DISPATCHES MORE SHIPS TO SPAIN

BERLIN, July 30.—(UP)—Germany, foreseeing complete collapse of the non-intervention scheme, tonight sent additional warships into Spanish waters. The official Nazi news agency, DNB,

REVOLT REPORTED IN REBEL RANKS

MADRID (Saturday), July 31.—(UP)—An uprising against the Rebels at Malaga, in southern Spain, was reported today in official government dispatches.

Loyalists heard rifle and machine gun fire within the city. Sixteen Rebel planes were withdrawn from another sector to put down the revolt, a Loyalist communiqué said.

Crack regiments of Italian "Carabinieri" have been rushed to Spain to put down spreading rebellion in the insurgent ranks, according to other reports. The revolts were caused by hatred between General Franco's mercenary Moroccan and Italian troops.

CITY AUDITORIUM PUT ON BLACKLIST BY STAGE UNION

Controversy Starts Over Employment Plans; Hartsfield Warns Group.

Atlanta's city auditorium has been "blacklisted" by the stage hands' union, Mayor Hartsfield and Councilman John A. White, chairman of the buildings committee, were informed yesterday by W. A. Kemp and Cliff Clower, representatives of the local union.

Because plans made by the buildings committee Thursday included employment of an electrician at $100 a month and not a stage hand at $60 or $75 per week, Kemp and Clower said the Atlanta local had asked the international union in Washington to place the auditorium on the "road call."

Cancellations Threatened. "This road call," explained Clower in a letter to White, "means large union orchestras and stage shows which have scheduled appearances at the auditorium will cancel them and will not ask for others."

Councilman White told Kemp that "we will get together on this proposition and if your union will furnish us a stage hand at $190 a month, we will employ him."

"We aren't going to have any holdups for work done by stage hands for conventions here," said the mayor. "If they charge $50 for hanging a welcome sign, as I heard they did in Birmingham, I'll go down there and hang the sign myself."

Opening Date Dispute.

In the meantime, White declared "the auditorium is going to be opened August 28" despite the fact it is unfinished and will be incomplete on that date.

Potato Yield Expected To Lead in Increases.

Important crops in the sixth federal reserve district, which includes the states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee, are expected to show a decided increase in production for 1937.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta in its Monthly Review giving a survey of business conditions in the sixth federal reserve district, estimates that on July 1 a gain of 12.1 per cent in the production of corn had been registered by the district, as compared with 1936.

Other gains in production of major crops over last year include: Wheat (bushels), 22.3; tame hay (tons), 14.1; tobacco (pounds), 3.8, and white potatoes (bushels), 44.1. The monthly review points out that Atlanta's retail trade in June declined 18.8 per cent as compared to May of this year, but that it showed a gain of 8.4 per cent as compared to the same month of 1936.

Nickel Cost of Ride In City Ambulance

Five cents was the price of an ambulance ride to Grady hospital yesterday.

Hiram Ellison, negro employee of Battle Hill sanatorium, took the ride with a pistol wound in his side and a shotgun wound in his arm.

Hiram got into a dispute with William Whitt, negro operator of a barbecue stand on Anderson avenue in Center Hill, and police said William used firearms to back up his argument.

The same disputed five cents bought William lodging in Fulton tower on charges of assault with intent to murder.

COMMITTEE KILLS CITY PAY INCREASE

Three Members Vote To 'Hold Suggested Raises in Abeyance.'

Proposed salary increases and adjustments for 75 city employees fell by the wayside yesterday when the finance committee voted to "hold the suggested raises in abeyance until some future meeting."

Councilman J. Allen Couch, who was one of the special committee which worked out the tentative salary schedule, insisted on approval of the raises and adjustments by the committee. Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of the finance group and a member of the special committee, was not present.

Committee Vote.

Though members of the finance committee declared they favored certain adjustments of obvious discrepancies, Councilman John A. White, vice chairman; Mayor Hartsfield and Councilmen Cecil W. Hester and Frank Wilson voted not to take action on the suggested raises yesterday.

"We must wait until the survey conducted by Dr. Thomas H. Reed, municipal expert, is completed," said White, who presided in Gilliam's absence. "His survey will consider salaries and also personnel."

1931 Basic Salaries.

George F. Haney, secretary of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, asked the committee to recommend restoration of the 1931 level of basic pay to all city workers. He presented a list of employees whose salaries were cut in 1931 before the general pay reduction from base salaries was ordered in 1932. He said it would cost $14,000 additional per year to make this restoration. The finance committee filed the request.

The committee advised a paper by Alderman G. Dan Bridges and Robert Carpenter to raise the pay of police captains from $216 to $240, and the pay of lieutenants from $190 to $220. The question of the salary paid Assistant Chief of Police A. J. Holcomb, which is lower than that paid J. A. McKibben, superintendent of detectives, was discussed but no action taken.

Street Widening Move.

Committeemen filed for future reference an ordinance to widen Fair street from Capitol avenue to Whitehall street, and withheld action on requests for $5,000 with which to open the John A. White park immediately, and for $6,400 to buy a canopy, install better lighting facilities and advertise the Cyclorama.

Employment of another plumbing inspector was recommended when committeemen were told fees collected for inspections are exceeding anticipations and additional funds can be realized by the additional inspector. Plumbers requested speedier inspection. Funds to employ a watchman at Piedmont park to prevent golfers trampling adjoining lawns seeking sliced golf balls were refused.

LAW DEPARTMENT SURVEY IS ASKED

Request for the Atlanta Bar Association and the Atlanta Lawyers' Club to make a survey of work of the law department of the city will be made by City Attorney Jack Savage, he wrote Mayor Hartsfield yesterday.

Savage said he was withdrawing requests for raises for Courtland S. Winn and Bond Almond, first and second assistant city attorneys in order to avoid embarrassment to the administration. Savage said he would ask the law organizations to "make what recommendations they deemed proper." Winn and Almond were recommended for raises from $250 to $275 a month.

Your Figure, Madam

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

MIDDLE-AGE SPREAD UN-NECESSARY.

Every woman loses her figure between 30 and 40—unless she exercises. Strong muscles make young figures, and the middle-age spread is nothing less than growing old in the middle of your figure. The front line, when controlled by strong, hard muscles, is naturally flat. Rolls of fat on the tummy are a sign that the muscles have gone soft and lax. Your figure can never look really young again until you firm and flatten that front line.

Even with normal weight, this line needs special discipline, for our entire mode of living is counter to natural exercise. The tendency is to relax these muscles in sitting, standing and walking, and this tendency increases with fatigue. Make no mistake, when these important muscles lose tone, you lose your figure.

Corrective exercises are equally necessary in the underweight and the overweight program. If you take on weight easily, your only chance of keeping your figure is to maintain these muscles in good tone. Fatty tissues, seem to gravitate to this area—it is the first place you gain and the last place you lose weight. Only firm muscles can make you immune to fatty deposit. Even when you are trying to gain weight, you must guard this line, for an increase in food intake means extra calories to turn into fatty tissue.

Stretch, to keep your figure young.

You wouldn't suspect from the appearance of most figures that nature provided us with slenderizing muscular girdles. These muscles never wear out. They grow stronger with exercise, but they stretch in all directions if the muscles lose tone.

In selecting a corrective exercise program, it is well to remember that these abdominal muscles are contracted reflexly when the body is stretched to full extension and in all hanging and creeping movements. You can also forcibly contract the abdominal wall by drawing up and in with the lower abdominal muscles.

The exercises which put these movements into practice may be taken in several ways:

Lie flat on the back, knees flexed and feet flat on the floor, and try to touch the small of the back to the floor. This draws the stomach muscles up and in. Another exercise is to arch your back high in the air like an angry cat, while on the hands and knees. Hanging from a stretching bar is an excellent way to put these muscles on their best behavior, but too strenuous for the beginner.

It takes consistent effort to tone flabby muscles, and abdominal exercise must be regular—daily, or twice daily. Also, right along with your exercise program, you must improve your posture and stretch up to your full height as you stand and walk.

Frosted Strawberry Special

The silvery streak of mercury is climbing higher and higher up the thin glass tube on the wall. The children have dawdled through a summer meal. You thought you prepared a menu to suit the temperature, but Mary Ellen pushes her hair behind pink ears and utters a fork dreamily in the air. Dad and Jimmie refuse "seconds." With a twinkle in your eye, you slip away from the table quietly before Jimmie murmurs "What've you got for dessert, mom?" It's a relief to see the willing family revive when they discover ice cream before them... even the mercury seems to pause in its ascent.

With over a hundred new ways to serve ice cream, your "What shall we have for dessert?" is answered completely... not only because of its varied and tempting ways of serving but because of its paramount food value and its simplicity in preparation and service. Ice cream is not a delicacy... just something nice to look at and delicious to taste. It is a real food. Ice cream at the end of a meal, between meals and in place of afternoon tea is an aid in balancing up your minus in nutrition. Ice cream is the greatest of all desserts because it can always be served in color harmony with any meal and in flavors to please the choice of every taste.

Buy ice cream regularly and keep it in your automatic refrigerator for casual, everyday serving and for that spur-of-the-moment need when "impromptu" drop in for bridge or a chatty visit. As soon as the ice cream is brought into the kitchen, line a thoroughly chilled ice cube tray with waxed paper, leaving each side of the paper wide enough to form a cover over the tray... run a spatula around the inside of the carton in which the ice cream was purchased... turn into the tray in one lump... slice through the center... smooth off... cover with the overlapping sides of the waxed paper, and place in freezing compartment. When ready to use, lift ice cream from tray with the waxed paper; slice and serve. In most automatic refrigerators, ice cream may be kept from 12 to 24 hours or longer. To insure best results follow the freezing directions of your own refrigerator.

Frosted strawberry ice cream special is one of the new dressed-up ways to serve ice cream... to make it a special instead of just plain ice cream.

1 quart strawberry ice cream
1 cup whipped cream
1 fresh strawberry
Fill cold, waxed paper-lined ice cube tray with one quart of strawberry ice cream. Pile 1 cup of whipped cream on top for extra nutrition and extra deliciousness. Place in freezing compartment to harden for 2 to 3 hours. Lift from tray; remove waxed paper; decorate with slices of fresh strawberries. Cut and serve. Makes 6 servings.

Atlas Helps You To Keep Up With This Fast-Moving World

News breaks—now here, now there. To keep on your toes and mix in the conversation, see in your atlas where the excitement is stirring.

"Railway Income Up." Activity for Chicago, the greatest railway center in the world. Easy to see why Chicago's so close to the center of population of the United States. To be more precise the population center is a little southeast of Terre Haute, Ind., slowly moving westward year by year.

"Russia and Japan." Recent interest centered on the Amur river. See it forms the curved boundary line between Manchukuo and Russia.

"Production Gains" the headlines say. To get the lay of the land look up the great manufacturing states. New York's first from the standpoint of value of production. Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan and New Jersey follow close behind.

While you're looking at the map, look at inland Montana, miles away from the Pacific coast. Ever notice that a generous slice of Montana is west of part of California, a seaboard state?

And by the way, which is the west end of the Panama canal, the Atlantic side or the Pacific side? The Atlantic side, strangely enough.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Although we have suffered another prolonged drought in this immediate section, it is everywhere apparent that for the most part, Georgia is enjoying another glorious summer of plenty of good things to eat. I have got to where I can't stay in our little patch very long with everything wilted down—no rain since July 5, and mighty little since the first week in May—but to look at the market tables and these trucks coming in from every direction, you soon forget your own disappointment in glad satisfaction that so many have had rain and that the crops seem to be so abundant and delicious.

Watermelons are cheaper in Atlanta than I have ever seen them, and as fine as I ever saw them. Although the peaches were very short, we have had some of the best ones I ever tasted, thanks to generous and gracious friends. And now the ever-faithful figs are coming in. What could be better than chilled figs for breakfast? Well, I would have to say more figs for dinner and then more figs for supper.

And what about the cantaloupes? They are good to smell and good to eat. And when you can't eat any more, you can stir up some in the churn and have ice cream, provided you have sense enough to know when to stop.

O yes, you may be sure I am coming to the grapes and scuppernons. The markets are beginning to display beautiful specimens of Georgia-grown grapes. In fact, they tell me they can't supply the demand; that the people prefer these fresh, tasty Georgia grapes to the less tasty offerings that have to be shipped long distances. One farmer has sold more grapes already this season than this whole county produced a few years ago. I think the best way to eat grapes and scuppernons is to get them off the vine before breakfast, while the dew is still fresh on them, but most of us have to take them second-hand—out of the refrigerator—and that is not so bad, if you're asking me.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Thursday.—I wonder how many people realize that within commuting distance of New York city, there are one-room schoolhouses where one teacher has 40 pupils covering every grade up to high school? I visited one such school yesterday and I met one of these teachers, who seemed to me quite a remarkable woman.

When I asked her how she managed so many children, she explained that they worked together on projects and that she tried to tie in their daily lives with the work they were doing and to make them appreciative of whatever they did. "So many," she said, "were discontented, but with a little help they came to realize they had much in life they simply had never been able to appreciate."

Her children must pass the regents' examinations and she has been very successful. To be successful, however, means not only having good training, but a fine personality and the real gift of the great teacher, a passion for imparting knowledge.

The families thereabouts have an average income, she thinks, of from $600 to $1,000 a year. The children must buy their own textbooks, but as few of them do so, she buys whatever is necessary, keeps the books on her desk and lets the children "borrow" them.

The question of free textbooks in public schools seems to me one that should be given more consideration than has been done in the past. New York city provides them, individual towns and villages do the same, but the vast number of rural schools, particularly in poorer districts, put the burden on the parents. What really happens is that the teacher, whose salary is never very large, either buys what she must have in the classroom herself, or makes shift with old books which she mends. The children are the losers thereby.

The particular teacher has one thing to be thankful for, a friend in the neighborhood who has an artistic bent and takes an interest in her labors. This friend is passing on some of her own skills to this teacher, who in turn will pass them on to the pupils. It would probably seem like heaven to a good many school teachers if there were more people in their communities who felt some responsibility about giving them a helping hand.

I had a delightful experience yesterday. I was in a locality where basket making has been a trade for many years. Never being able to pass any place where they make baskets without longing to go in, I was particularly delighted to have a good excuse in the fact that I need two different kinds of baskets.

No one was in the shop at first, but finally a lovely old lady with white hair appeared. My host murmured to her that I was "Mrs. Roosevelt." At first she said little, suddenly she took a deep breath and said: "I must kiss you." I was rarely been paid as sweet and spontaneous a compliment, even though I realize the kiss was meant largely for the President.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Mrs. Cox Observes 68th Birthday.
The sixty-eighth birthday of Mrs. M. E. Cox was celebrated at her home near Decatur July 25. The occasion assembled Mrs. Cox's brothers and sisters, children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Cox, a native of Fayette county, is the widow of the Rev. W. J. Cox, a former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hazlehurst, Ga. For the past several years she has made her home in Atlanta, lately moving to her country place near Decatur.

Dinner was served under the huge oak trees in the grounds of Mrs. Cox's home. A beautiful birthday cake, surrounded by candles, formed the centerpiece.

A brief invocation included an appropriate scripture selection read by the honor guest's daughter, Mrs. C. O. Smith, of Hazlehurst. Mrs. P. Watson, of Decatur, gave a tribute to her grandmother, an original poem, "To Grandmother," was recited by her granddaughter, Little Martha Jeanne Watson.

Members of the family present were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd West and son, of Fairburn; Mr. and Mrs. James Upchurch and Miss Eula G. Upchurch, of McDonough; Mr. and Mrs. John W. Smith, of Atlanta; W. E. Smith and two young sons, of Hazlehurst; Mr. and Mrs. John D. Cox and Mrs. P. H. Sigman, Daniel, Elizabeth and L. S. Sigman, of Decatur; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Smith, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Smith, of Hazlehurst; Mrs. C. P. Watson, Martha Jeanne and David Watson, of Decatur.

Haynes-Barrow.

ROME, Ga., July 30.—Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Susie Lee Haynes, daughter of J. H. Haynes, of Atlanta, and William W. Barrow, of Dallas, Ga. The ceremony was solemnized the afternoon of July 16 in First Methodist parsonage here, Dr. Charles M. Liphart officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrow reside in an apartment in Mrs. W. H. Wilkerson's home on West First street.

Mr. Barrow, the son of Henry Jackson Barrow, of Atlanta, is with the Fox Manufacturing Company here.

Aside from pocket-book independence, sweet morsel to any woman, the spinster has another sort of independence that's precious—her time is her own. While she waits (and most of them spend half their lives waiting on and for the men) the single gals are planning and pursuing their own business and pleasure. None of which is to say that they consider their selfish pleasure exclusively. The vast majority of them are ministering angels to poor relatives and ambitious nieces and nephews who must have a lift to get through high school and college.

In fact there are so many happy circumstances in connection with the modern spinster's existence that it's a wonder most women don't choose to support themselves in single blessedness rather than buy a fifty-fifty ticket in the marriage lottery. Yet when all the shots have been fired in honor of feminine independence and all the arguments have been advanced in favor of matrimony, the average gal is looking for a husband who will sponsor her application for membership in the amalgamated order of married women. After she has been initiated she may discover that she would have been happier had she remained outside but generally speaking she prefers to join up and form her own conclusions.

It is doubtful if the disappointed old maids outnumber the disappointed married women though there are some of both, the former disappointed because they haven't the love and companionship of husbands and the latter disappointed at the love and companionship of the husbands they have.

Pleasant Homes

EXCITING.

Our family thinks dining outdoors is the biggest thrill of all.

Dining out-of-doors has always seemed to our family to be just about the most exciting way to eat. Most homemakers, however, will contend that eating out-of-doors will just add to the already difficult task of feeding a family on a hot evening. A friend of ours who sets her table in the open air most of the time in summer has some good ideas on the subject that she passed on to us.

First, there is the matter of the dining table. It shouldn't be too small so that plates and platters must be bunched up uncomfortably upon it. And it should be reasonably weather-proof so that you do not have the fidgets every time the sky grows dark and threatening and you are away from home. A wrought-iron table with a glass top is the answer, of course. And don't think that buying one just for summer "dining out" is too much of an extravagance, for such a table will add immeasurably to a sun porch in winter and may do duty for winter Sunday night buffet suppers.

Platters and Chop Plates.

Carrying a great number of plates and platters and vegetable dishes to a porch or lawn also seems to add to the difficulties of warm weather dining. It might save your footprints if you invested in several large round platters or big chop plates that could hold your whole dinner—and you'll have fun arranging your meat, vegetables and garnishes on these. And don't forget your picnic thermos bottles to keep coffee or tea hot and to save from jumping up for replenishments every now and then. Consider, too, those several-dish electric "steam table" servers that keep things hot and handy. A bread scoop is fun and grand for those sandwich evenings when it's too hot to cook very much. If you plan properly, you'll find that you can serve a whole meal out-of-doors from soup to nuts without jumping up once. It takes trays and attention to details.

If your porch is so far removed from your kitchen as to make dining out on it too difficult, you can create a backyard dining room with quite an air of elegance. Several small trees in butter tubs painted green will outline your outdoor dining room's dimensions in sidewalk safe style. Keep the grass of this "room" cut very, very short, allowing the other yard grass to grow a little longer. (Invest in some of the miraculous grass seed that they use on golf course greens if you would like a really velvety "carpet" in your dining room.) A large umbrella, or one of these grandiose garden canopies, would complete your "room." The advantages of this type of outdoor dining space, of course, is that you can have it as near your kitchen door as you please and the birds will pick up your fallen crumbs for you.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

THE BUILDER-UPPER AND TEARER-DOWNER.

Long time no say much about physiological relation between insufficient daily vitamin and mineral intake and abnormal or excessive craving or capacity for refined carbohydrates. We are laity and rank and file of American Medical Yes-sociation no listen. Yes-sociation's pancreatic "spokesman" explode too many smart-crackers on idea in newspaper shop.

Loss of appetite, that is for proper food, is one characteristic feature or symptom of multiple neuritis, whether it be oriental polynuritis (beriberi) or damp-pool Yankee alcoholic neuritis. Both maladies are due to prolonged extreme shortage of vitamin B. This fact is slowly permeating the medical mind—there are still many physicians here in America who scarcely comprehend that so-called alcoholic neuritis is a nutritional deficiency and calls for all the vitamin B the victim can take in any form or manner. Twenty per cent of all cases of polynuritis, according to Vorhaus (Dig. Dis. and Nutr. 3, 915, '37), have intensification or aggravation of neuritis pain a few days after vitamin B treatment begins lasting for nearly a week, before the steady improvement becomes evident. In all neuritis cases it is well to remember this.

If increased intake of vitamins and minerals, or just vitamins, restores lost appetite or improves a poor appetite, as it does in beriberi, alcoholic neuritis and many vague cases of "below-par" condition, how can the same treatment curb excessive or abnormal appetite or craving for food? That is the question propounded by a good many critics who speak of vitamin B treatment begun lasting for nearly a week, before the steady improvement becomes evident. In all neuritis cases it is well to remember this.

Opinion Believed To Hold
Immediate Selection Is Not Necessary.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—Two high administration officials predicted tonight that a lower court judge will be appointed to fill the existing vacancy in the supreme court.

Refusing to be quoted by name, they hinted the new justice will be selected from one of the circuits not now represented in the high tribunal.

Possibilities Cited.

The officials said four or five circuits have no such representation. Judges in two of these, the tenth and fifth, already have been mentioned as possible appointees. They are Judge Sam G. Bratton, of New Mexico, former United States senator, and Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson Jr., of Texas, former mayor of Houston.

In effect, the administration executives threw cold water on current speculation that Governor Frank Murphy, of Michigan, might receive the appointment.

Word spread in the capital tonight that Attorney General Cummings has advised the President he may delay the appointment until after congress adjourns.

Republicans Indorse La Guardia In G. O. P. Mayoralty Primary

Action Pits Peppery Chief Executive Against Tammany-Backed Senator Copeland on One Hand, Grover Whalen on the Other.

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP)—The New York county Republican executive committee tonight indorsed the candidacy of Mayor F. H. La Guardia in the Republican primaries for mayor, a nomination the fusion incumbent said he would accept if tendered.

The mayor thus would be pitted in the Republican primaries against Senator Royal S. Copeland, Democrat, New York, designated by Tammany Hall as the Democratic candidate for mayor in the New York county primaries.

Senator Copeland also will run in the Republican primaries. The New York county Republican committee, in its party, corresponds to Tammany Hall in the Democratic party.

On the Democratic side of the fence, former Governor Alfred E. Smith took an active part in rallying Tammany, shorn by death of its leader, J. Dooley, behind Senator Copeland and grooming him for the fight in the Republican primaries on an anti-New Deal basis.

The Democratic leaders of the four other boroughs of New York city have designated Grover Whalen, former police commissioner, as their candidate against Copeland in the Democratic primaries.

American Jewish Stand on Proposed Plan Outlined for Briton.

GENEVA, July 30.—(AP)—Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of New York, stated the opposition of American Jewish leaders to Britain's plan to partition Palestine in a long talk today with William G. A. Ormsby-Gore, British colonial secretary.

Ormsby-Gore was in Geneva to present the British plan for establishment of independent Jewish and Arab states and a British mandate in the Holy Land—to the permanent mandates commission of the League of Nations.

A second Arab representative, member of a prominent Jerusalem family, arrived and announced he could support the partition plan. One Arab delegation opposing the plan was already here.

The newest arrival was believed a supporter of the Emir of Transjordan, who would be political leader of the proposed Arab state.

Britain now governs Palestine under a League of Nations mandate and League approval is necessary for any change.

Doubt that the League commission would commit itself where when members expressed doubt they were empowered to draft a preliminary opinion as asked by the League council. They said they were acting in a personal capacity.

She said she was through with acting.

Explorer Finds 500 Small Isles Instead of Just 1

CHICAGO, July 30.—(AP)—Discovery that Resolution island, Arctic formation north of Labrador, is not one large island but 500 small ones was reported today by wireless from the expedition of Commander Donald B. MacMillan.

E. F. McDonald, associate of MacMillan in previous Arctic explorations, said his yacht Mizpah in Lake Michigan received word of the discovery in a message from MacMillan.

The latter's schooner, Gertrude Thebaud, sailed June 24 from Gloucester, Mass., with a group of scientists aboard.

McDonald said the MacMillan discovery "undoubtedly will necessitate a change in maps, navigation charts and atlases" which now show Resolution to be a single island about 175 miles long and 50 miles wide. He reported the MacMillan message said in part:

"We worked through the ice in Hudson straits to Resolution island and found it to be a mass of islands instead of one. A conservative estimate makes it to be a group consisting of at least 500 islands."

"We found the group to be very interesting scientifically, botanically and geologically."

McDonald, a Chicago yachtsman, called the discovery an "important contribution to modern aviation in this age of airline short-cuts across the Arctic regions."

Dillon, George Shouted Down at Tennessee Meeting.

MARYVILLE, Tenn., July 30.—(AP)—Addresses scheduled to be delivered by American Federation of Labor speakers were shouted down here tonight by a group of hecklers termed by Francis J. Dillon, principal speaker and representative of William Green, as "CIO Communists."

Dillon and George L. Googe, of Atlanta, southern representative of AFL, came here to address workers of the Alcoa plant of the Aluminum Company of America, who returned to work recently after an eight-week strike.

The meeting came to an abrupt halt when someone in the crowd of several hundred persons shouted "scab" at Dillon soon after he arose to speak.

"Don't call me a scab or I will come down there after you," Dillon yelled back.

He was scheduled to explain why the AFL called off a strike in the fabricating mill of the Aluminum Company plant, which was the scene of a riot in which two men were killed and more than a score injured.

U.S. BONDS BRIGHTEN INACTIVE MARKET

Domestic Corporate Sector Marked by Down Drift in Carrier Loans.

Daily Market Averages.

NEW YORK, July 30.—(P)—A steady and slightly advancing tendency in government obligations brightened an inactive bond market today. Federal bonds moved up as much as 7-32, while losses did not exceed 1-32.

With new bond offerings during the past week at a low ebb—approximately $19,000,000 of which the greater part was municipal—some observers hold the view that treasuries are proving the natural outlet for institutional investment.

The domestic corporate sector was marked by a down drift in carrier loans shared to some extent by industrial issues. The Associated Press averages for 20 rails showed a decline of .4 of a point to 91.7.

Some quarters of the financial community believe institutional buyers have been disposing of lower grade and defaulted rail issues recently which fact may have helped to depress the carriers. Some pessimism over pending wage increases and negotiations and a crop of not so bright six months' earnings reports have also rode hard on the rails.

Pointing lower were B. & O. refunding 6s at 90, off 1-5-8, Atlantic Coast Line 4-1-2s, 91, off 1-1-8, International Paper 5s, 101, off 1-4, Consolidated Edison 3-1-4s, 107, off 5-8, and Shell Union Oil 3-1-2s at 99-1-2, off 3-8.

Total transactions for all bonds was $5,861,900, face value, compared with $6,169,500 on Thursday.

NEW PEAK REACHED FOR FEDERAL DEBT— AT $36,707,757,744

Government Obligations Approach 37 Billion, Treasury Reports.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—A $50,000,000 issue of discount bills lifted the public debt to a new peak of $36,707,757,744 on July 28, treasury reports showed today.

The bill issue was one of a weekly series with which Secretary Morgenthau is putting new cash into the treasury's working balance.

The balance stands now at $940,618,981, and Morgenthau has said he wishes to keep it around the billion mark because of troubled conditions abroad.

The July 28 debt was $3,245,000,000 over that of a year ago and $10,111,000,000 above the war-time high in 1919. Since the fiscal year 1930, the last period in which government income matched spending, the debt has increased $20,512,000,000.

President Roosevelt has said that a $2,000,000,000 increase in the debt during the first half of this year resulted largely from operation of the treasury's gold "sterilization" program and issuance of obligations to government trust funds, such as the social security reserve fund.

For the first 28 days of this fiscal year, the treasury reports showed, the government has run $193,550,363 into the red, compared with a $106,802,291 deficit in the corresponding period a year ago. A falling off in repayments to lending agencies has been one factor widening the gap between income and spending this year.

Gang Sentence Claim Refuted By Court Clerk

Massachusetts' Governor Hurley's charge to the nation that James Cunningham, Georgia chain gang escapee, was under 70 years' sentence for "receiving stolen property" was refuted yesterday.

Definite proof that the negro could have gained his freedom at the end of nine years was given yesterday as Charlie Hartsfield, deputy clerk in Fulton superior court criminal division, brought out seven 13-year-old indictments against Cunningham.

On a message to Governor Hurley, Hartsfield had said: "Cunningham presented show evidence aggregating 34 to 70 years' sentence for receiving stolen property."

Governor Hurley's mistake in interpreting photostatic copies of the documents, Hartsfield said, was that he read the seven sentences to follow consecutively when actually six of the sentences are worded to follow completion of the first and therefore run concurrently.

CITY WILL ATTACK PENSION DECISION

Ruling Giving Tax Cash of $100,000 for Back Payments Assailed.

Constitutionality of paying city pensions with tax money will be attacked in the supreme court this fall when the city seeks reversal of a superior court decision which makes Atlanta liable for $100,000 in back pension funds.

Conferring with City Comptroller B. Graham West yesterday, Mayor Hartsfield said the city will be called on to pay $100,000 in back pensions if the Fulton superior court decision in the suit of Albert R. Trotzier, retired fireman, is upheld.

Trotzier recently won his case in the lower court, contending that the city is due him and other retired firemen the difference between the amount of pensions under the 1931 act and the 1935 pension act.

West said 55 or 60 retired firemen or widows would be affected, costing the city $80,000. "If the supreme court, to which the city appealed the Trotzier decision, upholds the Fulton court, then the city will be liable for $20,000 additional as the result of the change in the general pension fund laws," he said.

"Additional pensions to firemen will only cost the city $20,000 a year," Marion Smith, who with Wellborn Cody, represent Trotzier, said last night.

"If the pension system is torn down, it will be the fault of city officials, who are just mad because they lost one suit, and will not be the fault of the firemen," Smith declared. "The firemen are not attacking the constitutionality of pensions."

Smith asserted the cost of the firemen's suit will become less and less each year, because only those who retired under the 1931 act are affected. "Five have died already since the suit was started," he said.

PROTEST COAL BILL

Owners Oppose Proposed Planning Authorities.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—Representatives of the bituminous and anthracite coal producers protested today the proposal to set up a national system of power and planning authorities.

John B. Scott, of the anthracite institute, was one of the spokesmen of the coal industry appearing at a hearing on the legislation held by the house rivers and harbors committee. He said hard coal producers were opposed to the Norris-Mansfield bill "not only because of its immediate and potential effect on coal marketing and employment but because it is unsound economically and against the public interest."

COMMITTEE AGREES ON TAX LOOPHOLE BILL

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—A congressional tax committee, in agreement on proposed methods for sealing revenue law loopholes, arranged today to put their recommendations into bill form next week, possibly Tuesday.

'YEARS ARE A JOKE' TO HENRY FORD, 74

Manufacturer Wants To Be Around as Long as 'I Am Useful.'

(Copyright, 1937, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

DETROIT, Mich., July 30.—"Years are a joke," said Henry Ford yesterday on the seventy-fourth anniversary of his birthday, when asked: "How does it feel to be nearly three-quarters of a century old?"

"If somebody didn't mention it," he continued, "I probably would forget I had a birthday coming. If you eat right, sleep right, work right, the passing of the years makes little impression on your feelings."

"But the world has changed a lot in the last 50 years, hasn't it, and you can see great changes?" he was asked.

"A different world. 'Yes, it's a different world, but the fundamentals are here just the same. People have not changed, but they have a lot more things to think about, and many more opportunities for improvement than they had 50 years ago."

"This change and growth means that there are always more chances for mistakes as the conditions of life become more complex, but it also means that there are more chances for improvement. Compared with 50 years ago, people are living longer, because they are learning better how to live. I think the time will come when most—if not all—diseases common to mankind will be whipped before they begin. Right living is the real cure for disease, by preventing disease."

Asked if he had anything to say on the political situation, Mr. Ford said: "No, the political situation is taking care of itself. I think it is Country on Uptown."

Industrially, Ford said, the country is on the upturn. "Mr. Ford seems in the best of health. The passing of the years seems to make little change in his face, and apparently none in his physical condition. He is as busy as ever about his plant and offices."

Asked if he wanted to live as long as John D. Rockefeller did, he replied: "Somebody asked me that question not long ago, and I replied that I want to be around as long as I am useful."

2 DEAD, 2 MISSING IN STEAMSHIP FIRE

Dual Inquiry Into Cause of Fatal Blaze Planned; Sabotage Is Suggested.

BALTIMORE, July 30.—(AP)—Quick action by a flotilla of rescue craft held the death toll in the City of Baltimore steamship fire to not more than four, a check of survivors established today.

Of the 93 aboard the Baltimore-Norfolk boat when the fire broke out in the hold an hour after she sailed, 89 were rescued alive. Two are dead and two are missing. Six survivors were injured, none seriously.

Shipping officials, the rescue work completed, centered their attention on causes of the blaze which flared through the wooden superstructure of the overnight liner.

Sabotage Suggested.

Captain Charles O. Brooks, a veteran of 35 years in the Norfolk-Baltimore service and commander of the City of Baltimore, said the "amazing" spread of the fire suggested sabotage. He said he had no reason for the suspicions except the speed of the fire in its spread.

One part of a two-phase inquiry began during the day, when officials of the Chesapeake Bay Line called the ship's officers to submit reports on the fire which broke out Thursday. The federal government will open its inquiry tomorrow morning, when a special investigating board, appointed in Washington, begins hearings in Baltimore.

Both men known dead were identified. They were J. R. Pollock, a passenger, and a retired merchant of Aiken, S. C., and Charles Wheaton, of Crisfield, Md., a member of the crew. Doctors said they drowned when they leaped from the burning boat.

Hull Pumped Out.

Still missing are H. Paige, a passenger whose address is not known, and a crew member, an officer of the 40th passenger guard, 98 were saved, and 51 of the crew of 53. Four crew members and two passengers were burned or injured, however.

Fireboats which had poured water into the blistered steel hull all night turned to pumping it out. With the hull, now beached in 13 feet of water, a search will be made for clues to the start and spread of the fire.
